

COMET

*To every thing there is a season,
and a time to every purpose under the heaven:
A time to be born, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
a time of war, and a time of peace.*

Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

*One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh:
but the earth abideth forever.
The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to his place where he arose.*

Ecclesiastes 1:4-5

Fashions play an important role in the development of a student's character in high school. The mode and style of clothes, as well as the accessories, affects personality and behavior. "Fashion Flair" of the '70 generation is maxi coats, leather jewelry, round and octagonal glasses, contact lenses, opaque hose, tie shoes with chunk heels, bell bottomed trousers, choker Indian beads, banchi bands, and hoop earrings. Debbie Green enjoys these outgoing fashions, displaying her hoop earrings.

Arts and crafts has been chosen by many students as an elective this year. Steff Miller, an Art I student, works with a pastel portrait, while students in the background sketch a model. Art class experiments with all media such as water colors, temper paint, and ink. Crafts class is basically concerned with the design of three-dimensional objects. Crafts students enjoy working with ceramics, jewelry, textile dyeing, wood, and metal. More students have signed for crafts this year than ever.

EXCHANGE STUDENT

Danish Student Brings New Culture to Nazareth

International Christian Youth Exchange brought Ole Pederson to Nazareth Area Senior High School. Ole, who comes from Huidovre, Denmark, arrived here on July 18, and will leave in July, 1970. He resides with the Lester Anderson family.

Ole, while at home, lives with his family, consisting of his father, who is a printer, his mother, and an older brother who attends college. He was graduated from Holmegardo High School. When he returns, he plans to attend Town Hall for five years for courses in social work. After finishing there, he plans three more years for still further education.

He remarked that the school system in Denmark is some different from ours in the United States. They hold class from 8:00 - 2:00 on week days and from 8:00 to 1:00 on Saturdays. They have no study halls. Ole also said that there is no cafeteria in the Danish school, and the students must bring their own food. As far as transportation is concerned, Ole said that in the winter students ride buses, and use bicycles for the summer.

Ole remarked that the people in Nazareth are very friendly, and that they have helped to make this year a rewarding experience.

During the school day, Ole speaks with his American mother, Mrs. Ruth Anderson, who is our library assistant, and his American brother, Barry. Ole enjoys Nazareth, and is very fond of the people he has met.

HOMECOMING

Student Revelry Begins Homecoming Activities

For the first time in history, Nazareth Area Senior High School celebrated Homecoming weekend on October 24 and 25. The festivities began on Friday afternoon following the fifth period. A formal assembly was held in the auditorium. Mr. Joseph Reichel, a member of the Class of 1947, delivered the main address. His speech, dealing with the youth of today, was followed by a few selections by a local rock group, The Prisms.

After the talent shows, all students congregated in the gym for the mock football game and pep rally. In the mock football game, the senior girls, representing Nazareth, challenged the junior girls, who represented Pen Argyl. The hard-fought contest was won by the senior girls. This day of assemblies and pep rallies served to build up the spirit of the students and the team.

Sally Heffelfinger of the Nazareth Blue Eagles prepares to kick off to the Pen Argyl Green Knights during the mock football game in which the senior girls challenged the junior girls.

As part of the senior class talent show, the dirty old man with questionable motives, played by Steve Narracci, approaches the shy and modest old maid, played by Connie Kalapick. She refuses his attentions, and promptly attacks him with her purse.

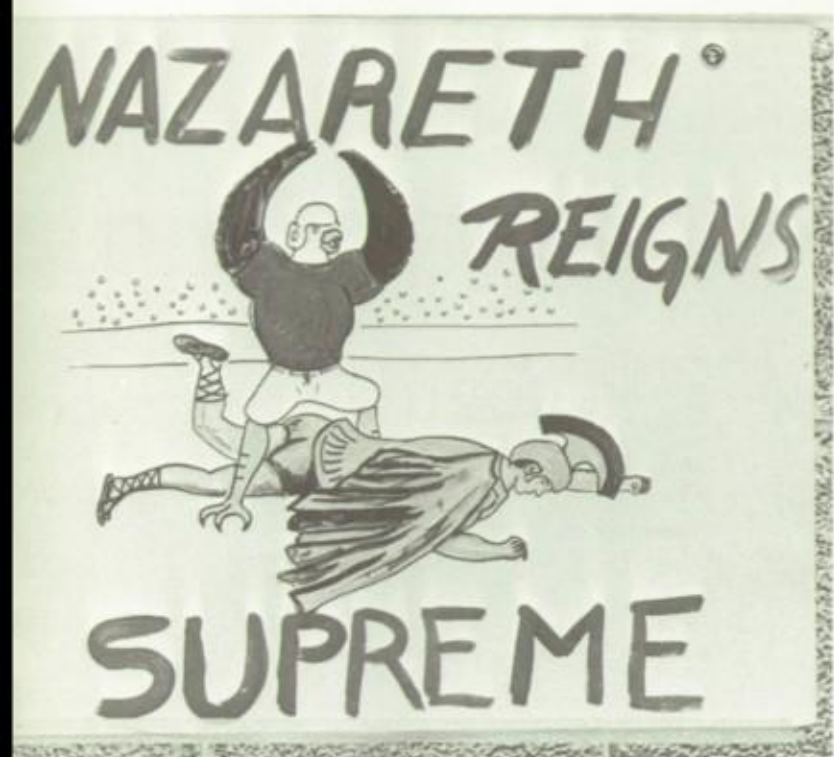

During the pep rally, Randy Heard is crowned Mr. Irresistible by Coach Evanko. Randy won this award by acquiring more Hush pins from senior girls than any other member of the football team.

Left: Joseph Reichel, a member of the Class of 1947, speaks as guest speaker for the formal assembly which inaugurated the first annual Homecoming activities. The subject for his speech was "Today's Youth," and the unpublicized good they have done. Above: As part of the senior talent show, a group of senior and junior beer drinkers combine to entertain their audience with comical tavern songs and their realistic hillbilly attire.

Connie Kalapick and Susan Frey realistically playing the parts of the Pen Argyl coaches in the mock football game, try to boost the spirit of their team.

HOMECOMING

"Combinations" Play at Homecoming Dance

Much time was spent preparing for the first Homecoming dance. The dance committee, headed by Lisa Walters, did a superb job in decorating the gym. The decorations consisted of signs declaring the supremacy of the Blue Eagles and the support of the entire student body and faculty, blue and white streamers, and a huge blue and white eagle hanging above the queen's throne.

At 9:30, October 24, Nazareth's first Homecoming queen was crowned by the first Mr. Irresistible. Marcie Lichtenwalner, crowned by Randy Heard, was officially presented as queen at the Homecoming Dance. Senior members of the varsity football team nominated five senior girls as candidates for the queen and her court. The entire senior class voted for the queen. The members of the court were Nanette Stoudt, Susan Smith, Kathy Stofanak, and Lisa Walters.

"Combinations," a well-known musical group from Easton, provided the music for the dancing couples. At some times the music was soft and romantic; at other times, loud and psychedelic.

During the senior talent show, a group of girls applaud one of the many acts appearing for the Homecoming program. Many of our fellow students displayed their hidden talents to make these shows a huge success.

Dressed in amusing attire, Nancy Yannuzzi, Brenda Yuhasz, and Nancy Gold displayed their comical talents by performing a humorous routine done to the popular tune of Ma-Na-Ma-Na.

HOMECOMING

1st Annual Homecoming Sparks Noble Tradition

Nazareth Senior High School's first annual Homecoming festivities have laid the foundation for a great tradition. From the main assembly to the game itself, Homecoming served as no other preceding occasion to boost the spirit of the students and the team.

This improved spirit was demonstrated by the many students who made signs and decorated their lockers and homerooms, and by those who donated their time to the planning of all the Homecoming festivities.

CHEERLEADERS

Nazareth Cheerleaders Have Spirit and Soul

Leading cheers, organizing pep rallies, and boosting team morale are a few of the jobs of our cheerleaders. These peppy girls must be given a great deal of credit for our teams' achieving so many victories, since their boundless enthusiasm transmitted itself to the student body, and it, in turn, cheered the Eagle teams onto more and more victories.

At the first pep rally, the cheerleaders introduced new cheers, such as "Power and Might" and "Spirit and Soul," which the students immediately adopted as their own. Little skits created by the varsity and junior varsity girls often included team members, and this led to a greater feeling of participation. Competition cheers, which the senior class won the majority of times, added to the students' enjoyment.

Eagle Players Turn in Successful Season

Nazareth's impressive 11-2-1 record proved enough to secure the Blue Eagle's position as 1969 Division champions and forced a play off for the league title. Under the competent advice of head coach John Roanoke, and assistant coach Barry Boyer, the Eagles demonstrated their ball playing proficiency in game after game.

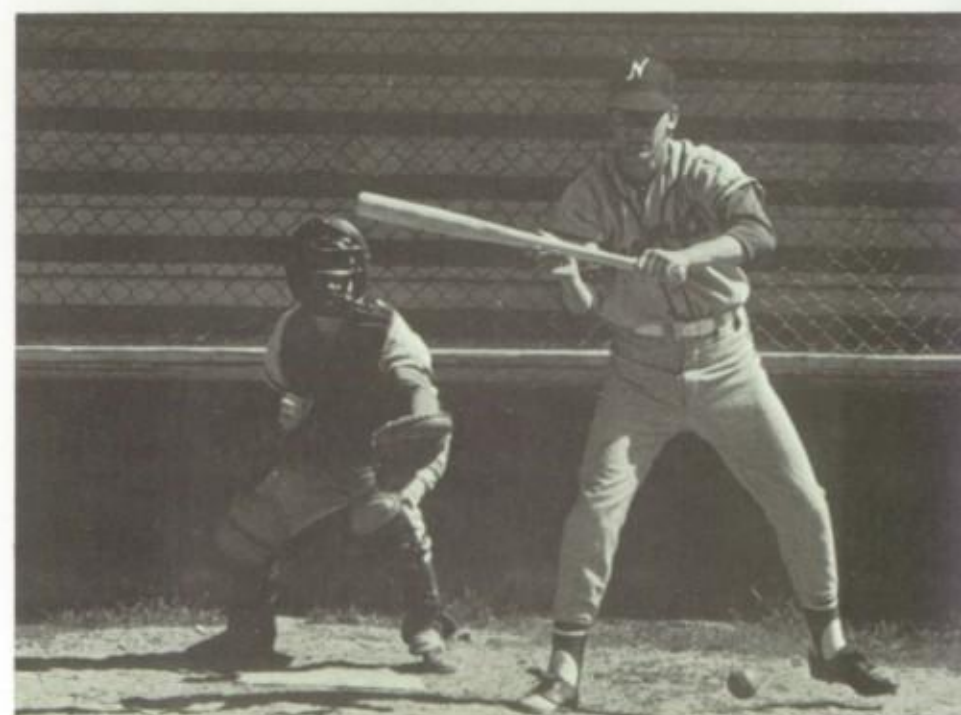

Nazareth opened its season by defeating Southern Lehigh, but then suffered its first defeat as the Hellertown team handled the Eagles with ease. Undaunted by this setback, the team started its 11-game unbeaten streak by beating, then tying Wilson High. The Eagles continued on their way by defeating Pen Argyl, and devastating Pocono Mountain 12-4.

Nazareth players defeated their next 7 opponents without any serious problems, but were edged out 2-1 by Bangor in the last scheduled game of the season. The Eagles then met Hellertown in the playoff game to determine the league championship. The Blue Eagles showed themselves to be much improved since their initial meeting with Hellertown, but the powerful Panthers managed to stay on top of the score. The Eagles, however, were left with the Divisional championship and a very satisfying season.

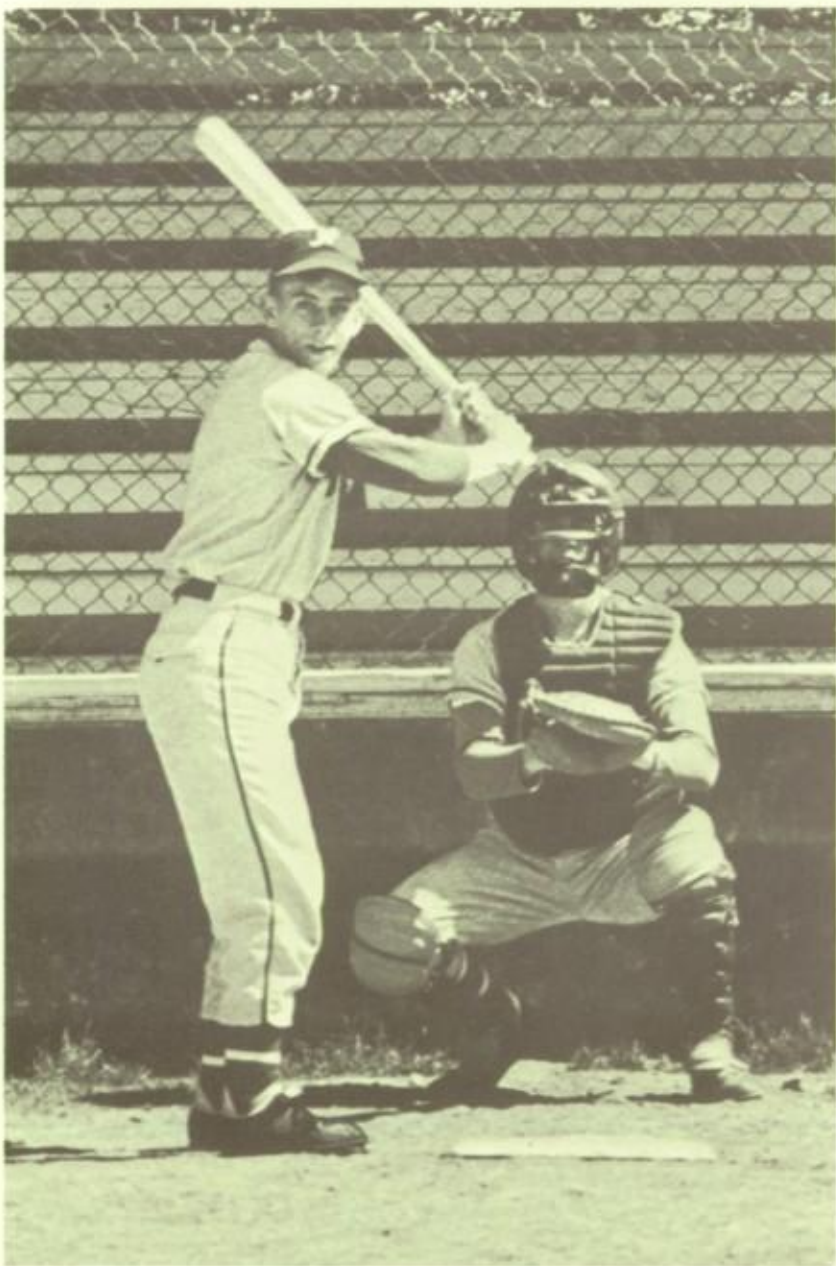

Sophomore Larry Schoeneberger bares his teeth as he sends the ball towards home plate. Larry, being a left-handed pitcher, caused many disappointments among the Blue Eagles' opponents.

Head coach John Roanoke discusses pre-game strategy with senior captain Dale Hildenbrandt. Continuous assistance from the coaches and fine leadership combined to form an excellent baseball season in 1969.

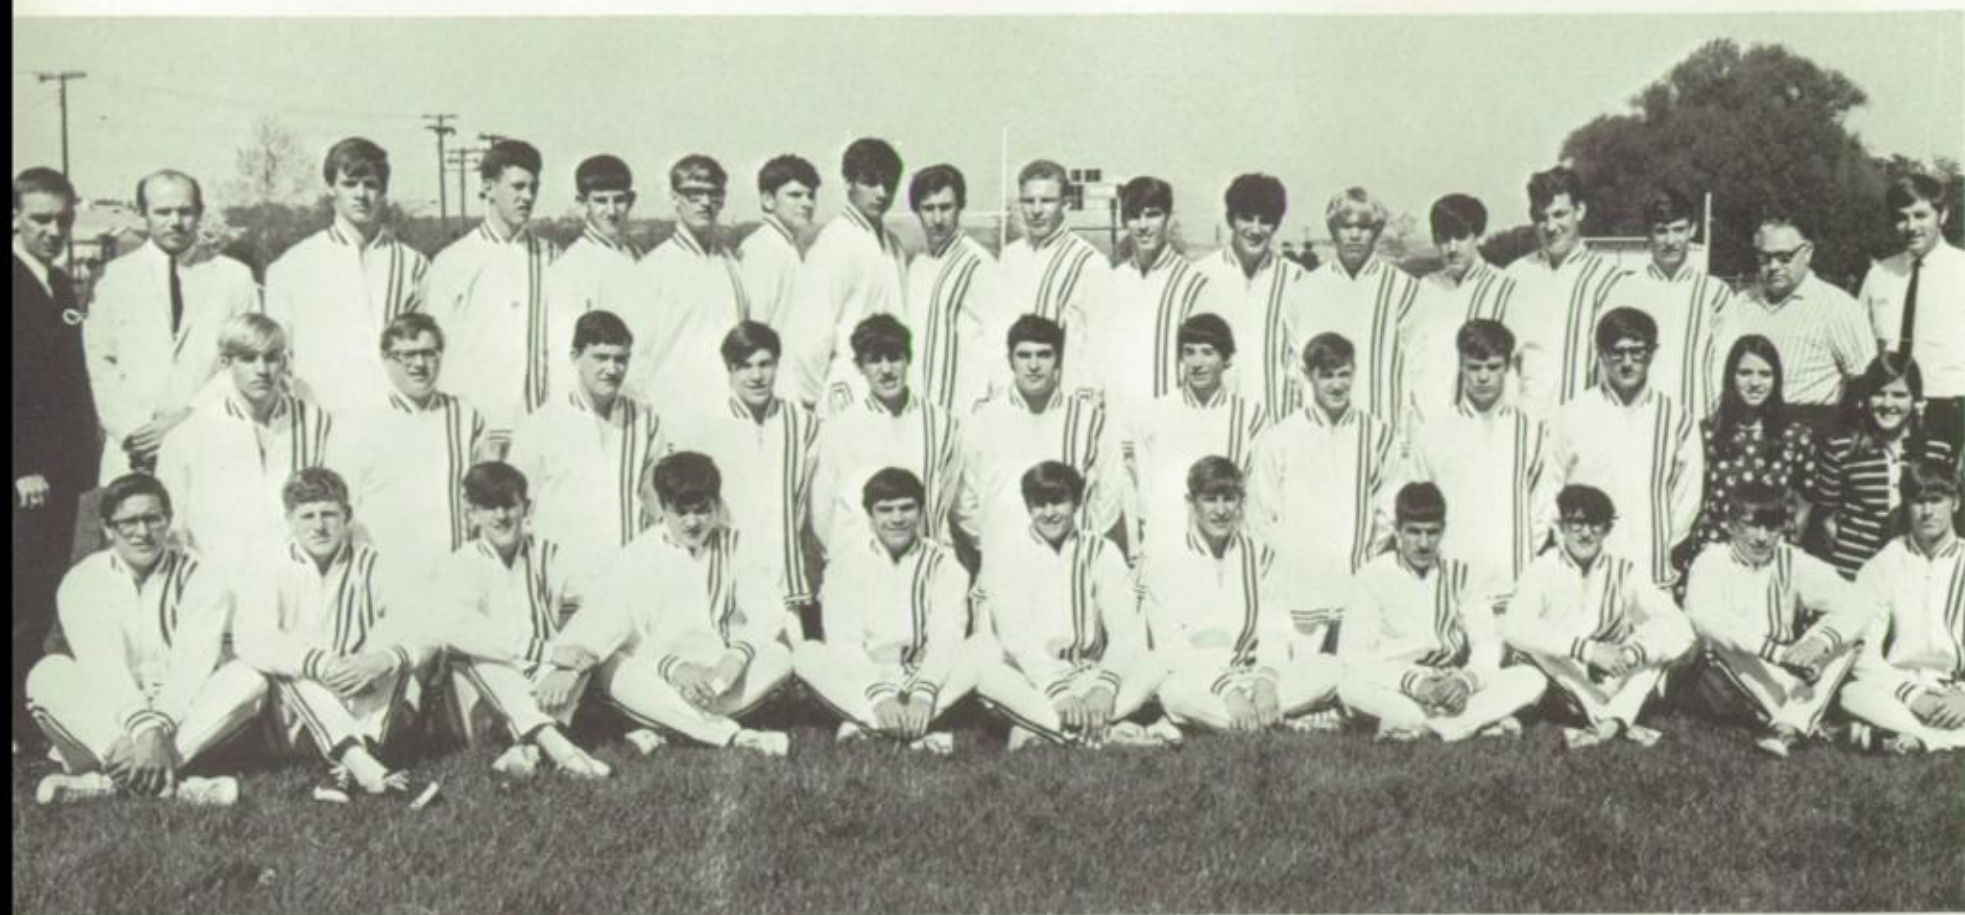

Junior Don Dreibelbis polishes his bunting ability during a practice session at Nazareth Borough park. The Eagles' bat handling ability enabled them to capture the Northern Division title.

TRACK

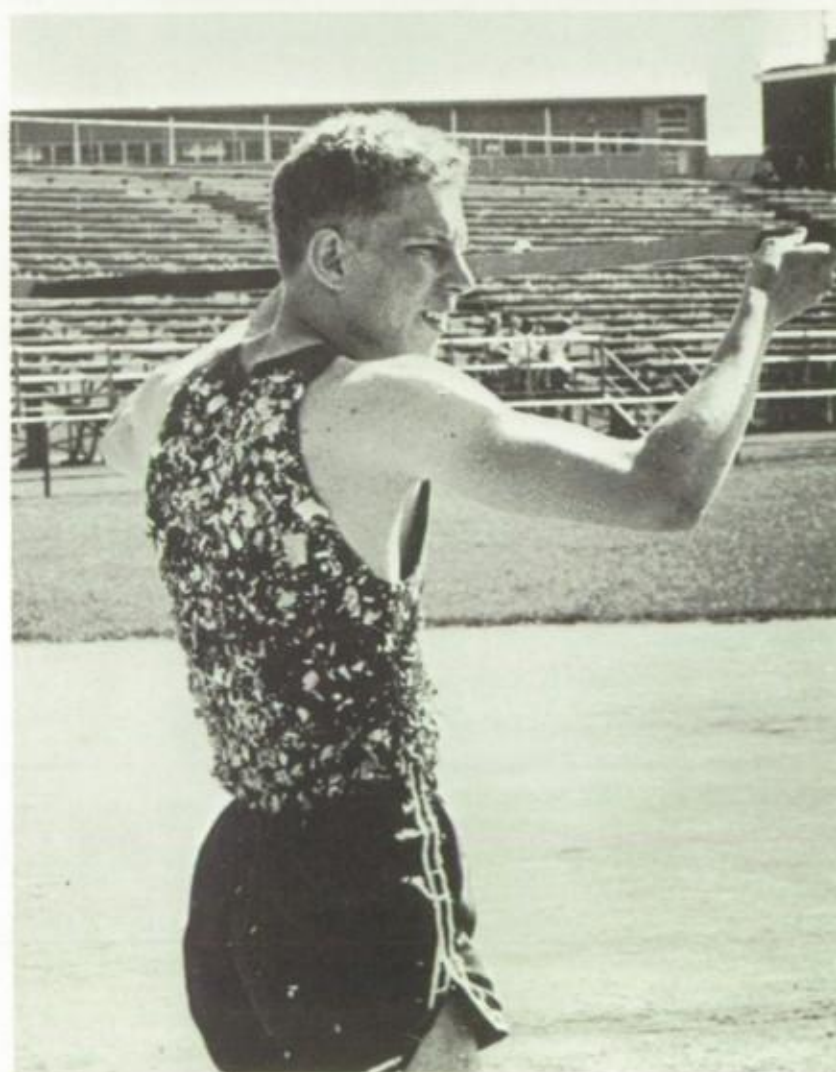

Thinclads Compete in Elegant New Uniforms

Nazareth High School had the distinction of being the only track team in the Lehigh-Northampton League to employ female managers during the 1969 season. Edith Seifert and Diane Harding assisted Coach Alan Miller during both the meets and the practice sessions, effectively filling-in for the absence of male counterparts.

Another new feature of the team was the appearance of Assistant Coach Ronald Lewis. Coach Lewis specialized in the jumping and pole-vaulting events, thus allowing Field Coach Miller time to concentrate on the throwing events.

Nazareth opened its 1969 season by defeating Salisbury 77-27 and Pen Argyl 73-31. Sparked by triple-winners George Mucha and Ron Musselman, the Blue Eagles lengthened their streak by defeating Palisades before suffering a crushing 37-67 loss at the hands of powerful Hellertown. Nazareth lost 47-57 to Wilson in a meet which remained uncertain to the last event.

Eagle thinclads rallied their strength long enough to defeat Pocono Mountain 74-30, only to suffer back-to-back losses by Parkland and Bangor. The Blue Eagles ended their season with a happy note, defeating East Stroudsburg 77-27, thus preventing a losing season.

Junior sprinter George Mucha adds to his outstanding record of first-place wins as he breaks the tape in the 100-yard dash. Mucha was high scorer for 1969 with 110 points.

Below: Head Coach Alan Miller was assisted by Andrew Temmel, representing the cindermen, and Ronald Musselman from the field events. Musselman holds the District XI javelin championship.

GOLF

Paukovitch Wins Third Flight in League Play

Although golf is only in its second year at Nazareth Area Senior High School, Coach James Evanko's eight players have made admirable progress. Captained by senior Robert Butz, the Blue Eagle golfers attained third place in the Lehigh-Northampton league standings.

Losing only to the eventual champion Parkland and to Southern Lehigh, Nazareth's relatively new team compiled a 5-2-0 overall record.

The Blue Eagle's home course is the Green Pond Country Club, where Coach Evanko drills the team in the many skills required by good golfers.

Scott Paukovitch, a junior member of the 1969 golf team, attained high honors in league competition, winning in his flight against very stiff competition.

Robert Butz, senior captain of the golf team, assisted Coach James Evanko throughout the season. His record of wins to losses showed him to be a competent golfer. Bob confers with Coach Evanko just before the last match of the season.

As a junior, Scott Paukovitch had a very successful season, winning many of his matches. In 1970, he will be a top contender for the district championship.

TENNIS

Blue Eagle Racketeers End Rebuilding Season

Carey Hawk, junior racketeer, manifests the determination that made him an outstanding tennis player during the 1969 season. It is this determination that carried him through the District XI tennis competition this spring.

Hard hit by graduation, the Blue Eagle tennis team compiled a 3-8-1 overall record during the 1969 season. Having started the season by tying the Dieruff team, Nazareth netmen dropped their second and third matches to Liberty and Parkland. Not to be outdone, the Eagles rebounded by defeating Palmerton by a healthy margin, only to be handed defeats at the hands of Freedom and Emmaus. The Freedom match, however, was the most thrill-packed of the season, for seven sets went beyond the conventional 6-4 match.

Reading fell victim to the Blue Eagle attack, but the remaining teams in the league proved to have too much depth for the netmen to handle.

Bill Eberts represented Nazareth in the District single competition, and an Eberts-Hawk team performed for the Eagles in the District Doubles.

Three Players Receive Honorable Mention

Nearly everyone was surprised when the "leftover" 1968 football team fought to the top of the Lehigh-Northampton League. With the turn of the season, however, went most of Nazareth's heavyweights, and even the most confident Eagle fans had worries over the diminutive line of the 1969 team.

Working under one of the heaviest practice schedules in the area, the gridders strove to prepare themselves for the upcoming season.

Seemingly confirming the worst fears, the Eagles lost their season opener to Governor Mifflin 22-0. The oversized Mifflin team, however, was not a good standard by which to judge the fledgling Eagles. Nazareth regained its stature by besting Hellertown 27-14 and when Lehigh and Whitehall, both strong offensive teams, fell easily to Nazareth, the Eagles earned the title "Rugged Nazareth."

FOOTBALL

Eagles Extend Streak to 20 League Games

With a 12-0 victory over Parkland, the "Battle of the Titans" was set up with Pen Argyl. The Green Knights apparently had the best offensive team in the league. Devastating end sweeps and off-tackle plays had scored them 18 touchdowns in their first five games. The Eagle defense had to hold, and that they did! Spurred on by a record crowd, Nazareth held the Knight's quarterback to 96 yards in 26 carries, and won the contest 12-7.

With the Knights safely tucked away, the Eagles contained Bangor's powerful passing game and then snapped Salisbury's seven game winning streak, virtually clinching the Lehigh-Northampton League title. After the victory over East Stroudsburg, there was no doubt left in anyone's mind as to Nazareth's football supremacy. The 1969 Blue Eagle team had done what no other team in the history of the L-N-L had been able to do — they had won three straight championships.

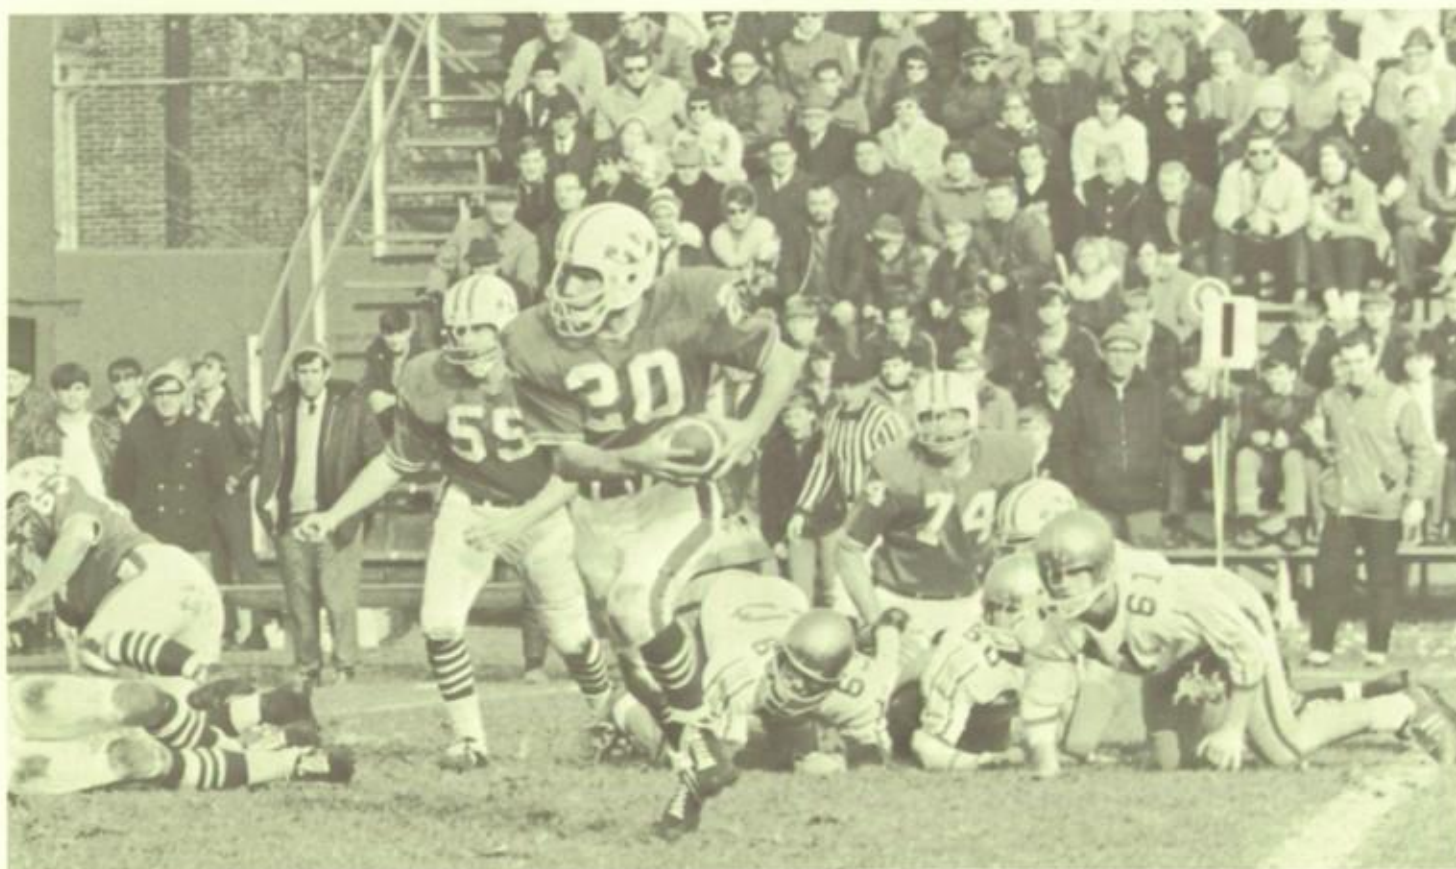

All that remained for a perfect season was a victory over Wilson. This was accomplished on November 28, when the Eagles stretched their streak to a record 20 League games without a loss, by far surpassing any previous streak.

Defensive linemen and backs fight past Wilson blockers to reach the ball carrier. Boasting a determined and hard-hitting defense, the Eagles were able to ruin many offensive averages.

Senior fullback Tim Messinger attempts to outdistance a Wilson lineman. Although badly outweighed in the league, the Eagles answered for their small size with speed and aggressiveness. Tim, along with Carl Fischl and Ken Steward, received "Big 33" nominations and Honorable Mention honors on the Associated Press All-State team.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY

All Right, Joe!

Any girl who wants to play field hockey simply has got to be built for it. Unless she intends to play goalie, which frequently means kicking hard-driven balls out of the goal cage, her feet had better be small enough to prevent her and her teammates from tripping over them. Instant accelerations, on-the-spot pivots, sinew-snapping lunges, speedy circular tackles, artful dodges — all demand short, muscled legs, hard flat stomachs, powerful backs, and active adrenalin-producing glands.

To successfully wield a hockey stick or accurately drive a ball requires not only steadfast practice, but also strong, coordinated arms. Also advantageous to a hockey player are shinbones of steel and unbreakable knuckles, toes, and kneecaps to guard against injury by a swinging stick or a lofted ball. If she's muscular, built low to the ground, supple, and durable, a girl could be a natural for field hockey.

Although they lost 6 of their 8 games, the newly-formed girls' field hockey team never lost their spirit and determination to win. Alternately sweating and freezing through grueling practices, suffering numerous injuries, running, skipping, scrimmaging, complaining, losing, winning — all were experiences the "Chiclets" will always remember.

Waiting seemed to play a major role in the lives of the hockey team. Upper Right: Waiting impatiently for the Whitehall game to begin are Jean Frantz, Heather Edwards, and Sue Smith. Lower Right: Players await the arrival of the trays of orange slices at half time.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Girls Place Second In League Standing

This year the Eaglettes experienced another fairly successful season. Rules were changed early in the season when the traditional six players were lowered to match the boy's five players, all stationary.

After their first loss to Wilson, the high-spirited girls never gave up. They went on to win four consecutive league games. Contributing to the team's success were the starting five, consisting of four seniors and one junior. Seniors were Co-captains Steff Miller and Susan Smith, Steff Paukovits, and Jeanne Hunt. Becky Hess was the starting junior.

High-scoring guard Susan Smith gets two for the Eaglettes as the Nazareth team watches attentively.

BASKETBALL

Eagles Gain Third Straight L-N-L Crown

Nazareth Blue Eagles brought home their third Lehigh-Northampton League championship and their seventh successive Northern Division crown. Led throughout the year by Co-captains John Gyulai and Charles Calandra, the Big Blue achieved a commendable 18-5 record. Keys to the team's success were John Gyulai's pin-point passing and fine shooting and Charlie Calandra's accurate outside shooting. The rebounding ability of two junior starters, Sam Senneca and Kyle Roth also contributed to the successful season. Clutch foul shooting by senior Richard Nagle and steady performance of senior Carl Fischl were great aids in the completion of another fine season.

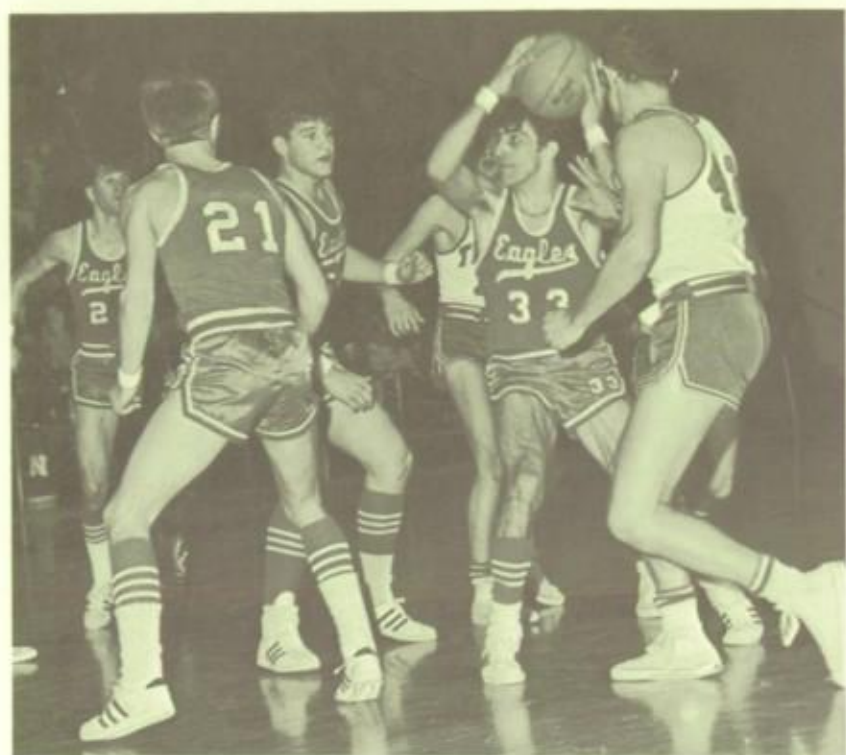

In the pre-season schedule, the team came out of all but one game victoriously. The Eagles rolled through their first three games, including Stroud Union, 63-55, Lehighton, 68-64, and Pocono Mountain, 69-37. The Blue Eagles then traveled to Catasauqua, a Lehigh Valley League power. The Rough Riders handed the Eagles their first and only preseason loss with a score of 70-56. Although the Eagles were still trying to find the winning combination, they used spirited play and tenacious defense to defeat their opponents. The teams who tasted defeat at the hands of the Eagles were Emmaus, 78-59; Whitehall 63-51; and Northwestern 77-64. In the preseason game against Salisbury, the team, led by Charlie Calandra and John Gyulai with 27 points each, outscored and outplayed the Falcons, 75-69.

Before a dwarfed crowd in Liberty's Memorial Gymnasium, the Eagles opened play in the first half of the Northern Division against Bangor. The Eagles swept by the Slaters with a resounding 74-66 victory. The Big Blue then edged Parkland, 65-62. By trouncing Wilson 64-44, the Eagles moved into a tie for first half honors. The Cagers dropped their first league game to a fired-up Pen Argyl team by a 73-67 score. John Gyulai had 26 points in the losing cause. The Big Blue rebounded by stinging East Stroudsburg 70-53 on the Eagle's home court. Finishing the first half with a 5-1 record after dumping Hellertown 64-54, the Eagles would have been tied with East Stroudsburg had it not been for Bangor, who bumped off the Cavaliers in the final minute of play. The Eagle's ever-improving play gained them the first-half crown and a chance to grab their seventh consecutive Northern Division title.

Cagers Earn Seventh Northern-Division Title

As the second half got underway, the Eagles slipped past Bangor and Wilson 76-64 and 63-56. Highly improved Parkland stunned the Blue Eagles with a shockingly high 93-62. Seeming to be on the downhill, the Eagles lost their last and only home game to Pen Argyl 66-71. Out of the competition for the second-half crown, but regaining momentum, the Eagles downed East Stroudsburg for the second time 62-56 and managed an 82-70 victory over Hellertown.

By virtue of their first-half championship ticket, the Eagles traveled again to Liberty's Gymnasium to challenge "the most improved team in the Lehigh Valley," Parkland, who became second-half champs by defeating East Stroudsburg. Pulling away 15-10 at the end of the first quarter, the Eagles never trailed and went on to win their seventh Northern Division title in a row 59-34. Burly Sam Senneca, a 209-pound junior, hauled in 19 rebounds.

Salisbury, who had won the Southern Division championship, and their last 13 ball games, came to Whitehall Gymnasium to challenge the defending Lehigh-Northampton League champions, the Blue Eagles of Nazareth. Termed "the hottest team in the area," Salisbury just couldn't put it together against the Blue Eagles, who upended their streak 69-55. Since the Blue Eagles were plagued with early four trouble, Coach Boyer sent in senior Lonnie Leh and junior Dennis Fry, who did a fine job in containing Salisbury's scorers. Sam Senneca came through again and grabbed 19 rebounds for his best performance all year. Playmaker and ballhandler John Gyulai, who scored 16 points, iced the game with 59 seconds left when he made a clean steal from a Salisbury player. In the final eight minutes, Charlie Calandra, the game's top scorer with 20, was 5 for 6 on the free throw line and hit two long jumpers to keep the Blue Eagles in contention. The capacity crowd of 2,000 envisioned an overtime as the game was tied at 50, 57, 61, 63, and 65 in the final period.

In District XI tournament action, the Blue Eagles met "jinx" team Panther Valley for the Eagle's final game in the Liberty gym. For the third straight year the Panthers sneaked by the Eagles. Two clutch foul shots by senior Richard Nagle tied the game at 55-all at the end of regulation play. In the overtime, the Panthers pulled away to a 59-53 lead. The Big Blue closed the gap but it was too late. Charlie Calandra had 19 points for the Eagles in the tormenting defeat.

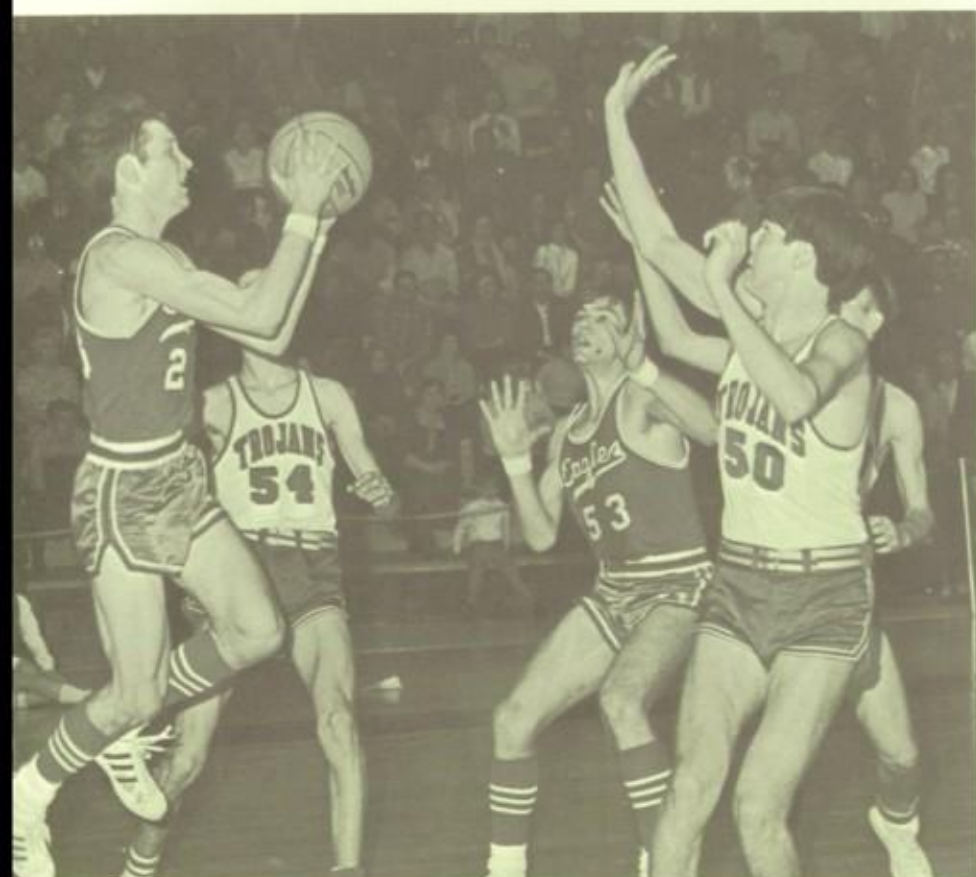

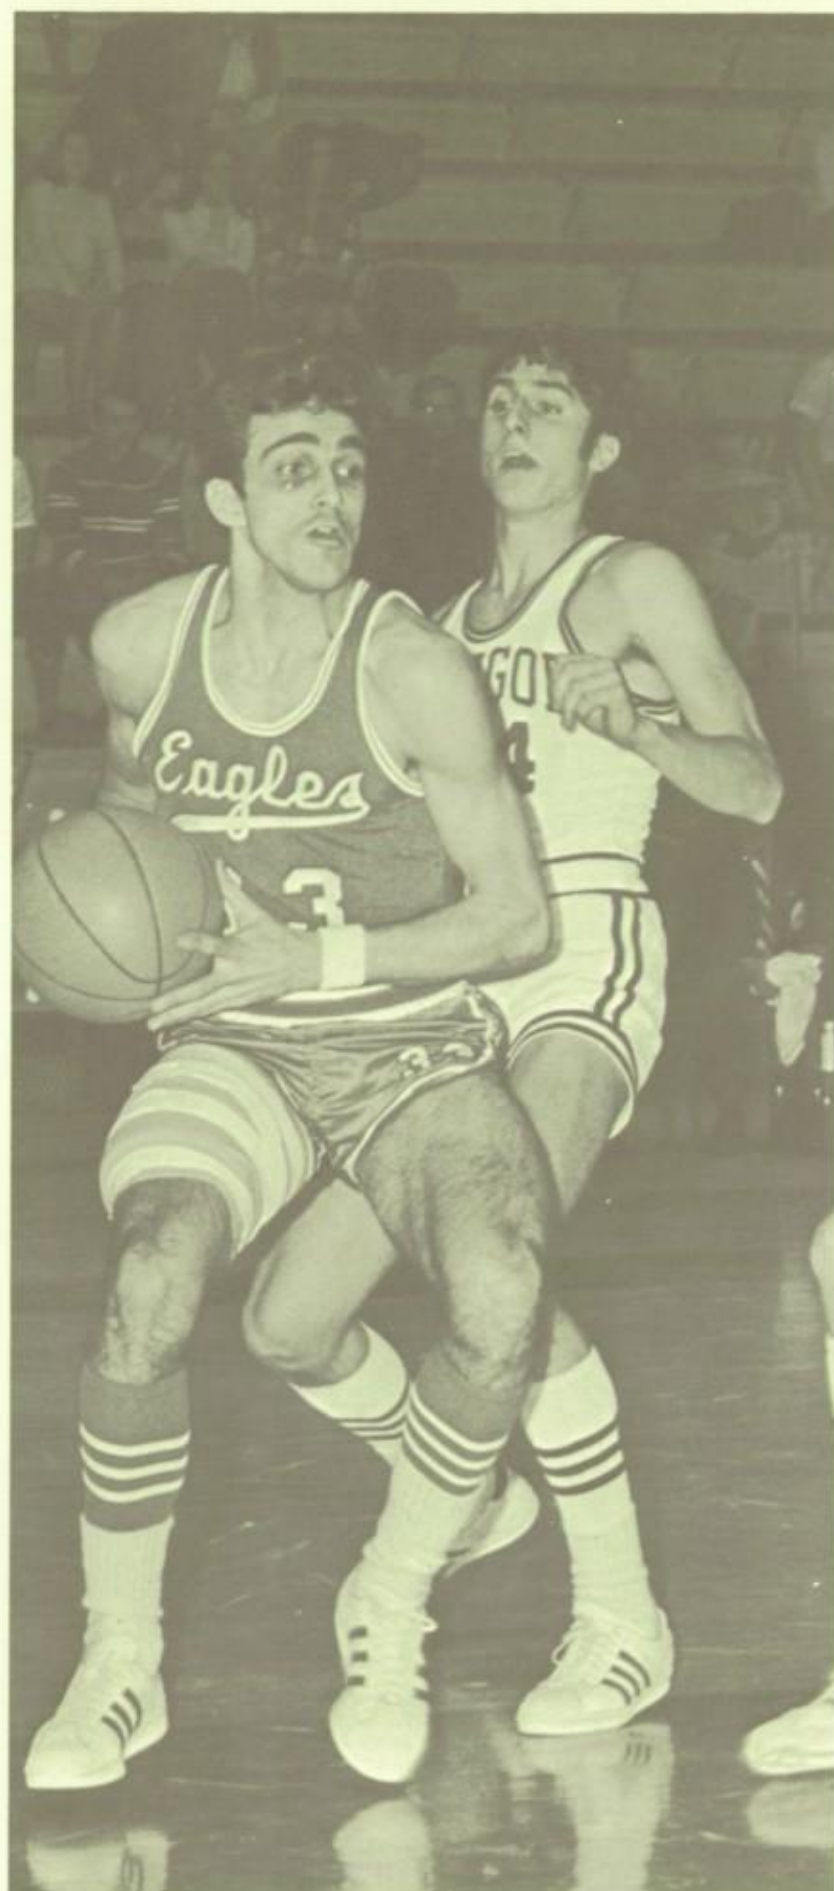

Citizens of Nazareth have much to be proud of in the Blue Eagles, for although they didn't capture the elusive District XI championship, they achieved what no other Lehigh-Northampton League team has ever done; winning three consecutive League titles and seven Northern Division championships in a row.

In LNL first-half action against East Stroudsburg, two Cavalier defenders are left standing flat-footed as Kyle Roth jumps high above them, executing near-perfect form for a jump shot.

John Gyulai splits two Hellertown players while driving up the lane for a basket. Richard Nagle (Right) moves in to gain rebounding position. Following the action are Sam Senneca and Kyle Roth (#52).

Head Coach Barry Boyer grins after winning his third Lehigh-Norhampton League championship in a row. The Eagles also gained their seventh Northern Division crown in a row.

Leg taped, muscle tensed, and braced for a halt, Charlie Calandra maneuvers around a Bangor defender as he looks to pass the ball into the lane to an awaiting player. Left: After driving baseline and acquiring position between two Parkland players, John Gyulai sets up a pass to fellow teammate Kyle Roth (#53). Many such exploitations enabled the Blue Eagles to manhandle Parkland.

WRESTLING

Eagles Compile Worthy 10-4 Seasonal Record

Despite facing their toughest schedule in years, the Blue Eagles wrestled to a 10-4 overall season record. Defeated only by powerful Phillipsburg, Easton, Hellertown, and Wilson squads, the Eagle grapplers decisively beat all other opposition to finish third in league action.

This year Nazareth High wrestling has asserted a great influence on the community. As a winter spectator sport, wrestling has aroused as much enthusiasm and attracted as large a following as basketball. Joseph Drust, former assistant coach, initiated an elementary school wrestling program, and Ronald Lewis took over as JV coach and assistant varsity coach.

Although this season's squad was relatively inexperienced, several of the boys turned in outstanding performances. 168-pound junior Jack Miller, 12-2, tied Ron Klein's 1966 school record of nine pins in a single season. Richard Albert, 11-3, Rich Gross, 12-1-1, and Miller were Lehigh-Northampton League Sectional winners in their respective weight classes. Other fine records were compiled by Kenn Steward, 12-2; junior Ron Gerhard, 11-3; and freshman David Schreck, 9-1.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

School Board Approves Plan For Senior High

Due to the crowded conditions in Nazareth Area Senior High School, the Board has approved an extension to the building. The proposed extension includes 19 additional classrooms, enlargement of the library and cafeteria, and conversion and enlargement of the gymnasium area and music rooms. Two of the principal features will be a new gym, with a seating capacity of 2,000, and a planetarium which will serve the interests of grades from kindergarten through twelfth. The project also provides for a relocated health suite, earth and space science and advanced biology laboratories. We will also have an enlarged area for the guidance personnel.

Keeping students abreast with college requirements and job opportunities presents a necessity for the best education possible. The Board of Education's efforts to keep up with provision of this best possible education is shown by the constant improvement of our educational facilities.

Administrative Leadership Creates New Standards

Every high school administrative staff is responsible for the well-organized curriculum for an adequate system of learning.

As principal of Nazareth Area Senior High School, Frederick C. Benfield has brought the qualities of leadership and dedication to his important administrative position. Vice Principal Adam Shekletski is not only responsible for the general disciplinary policy, but he also verifies the validity of student absenteeism.

Through interpretations and evaluations of tests, Robert Reichard and Marlyn Roth, our guidance counselors, aided juniors and seniors in planning their college or occupational placements. Iowa Tests of Educational Development for ninth and eleventh graders, Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests, College Boards, and Merit Scholarship Tests are supervised by the counselors.

ENGLISH

English Poses Questions in Youthful Minds

In a world where men have walked on the moon, where human hearts have found second lives, and where the Republican party again made its appearance into the limelight, man's ability to communicate with his fellow man has become an increasingly important virtue. In the field of communication, one must keep in mind the skills of listening, speaking, and writing. These skills are developed through the interpreting of lectures, through public speaking, and through the construction of themes.

During a student's high school education, the sole purpose of the English Department is to prepare the student for the challenges of an ever moving society. Grammar is a heavily stressed subject for the Sophomores, which can be applied to theme writing in later years. In the Junior English classes, the study of literature is stressed. In their Senior year, students prepare oral presentation using the basics of grammar and literature they learned in previous years. Book reports are no longer based on the story itself, but are written by applying concepts given to the students by their teachers.

Several Juniors challenge Beverly Long as she explains some aspects of a literature map. Eleventh grade English usually pursues the study of literature and composition. This map is one way of attracting the students' interest.

Hard at work, Juniors get their first taste of writing under their new Junior English teacher, Harry Rollins. Composition writing is a very vital part of Junior English, especially for college preparation.

College Preparatory students in the first period English class work attentively on paragraph development and sentence construction, as they study their Rhetoric. Much attention during the beginning of the school year is placed on these subjects.

Mr. John Scannell's Senior English class ponders on his perplexing question, "What does your Hell look like to you?" Several students expressed humorous and varied remarks, while others expressed their disbelief in Hell completely.

Above: John Scannell, Senior English teacher and Drama instructor, explains his idea of what Hell is like in order to stimulate the students' imaginations so that they will be able to interpret their own ideas. Right: Grammar is an important part of Sophomore English, as Mrs. Janice Lewis, Sophomore English and German I teacher, explains to her class. During the early part of the year, the basic points of grammar are discussed and thoroughly reviewed.

Chemistry instructor Adam Shekletski explains the laboratory technique of heating a hydrate over a Bunsen burner to Sue Smith, who manages to look confused.

Above: Dyvonne Nevil, mathematics teacher, attempts to convey the basic fundamentals of Algebra II by explaining the homework preparation which the students have written on the chalkboard. Right: Bonnie Berger assists Cindy Lou Bealer in locating the internal organs of a frog. The students learn the basics of biology through such laboratory research.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

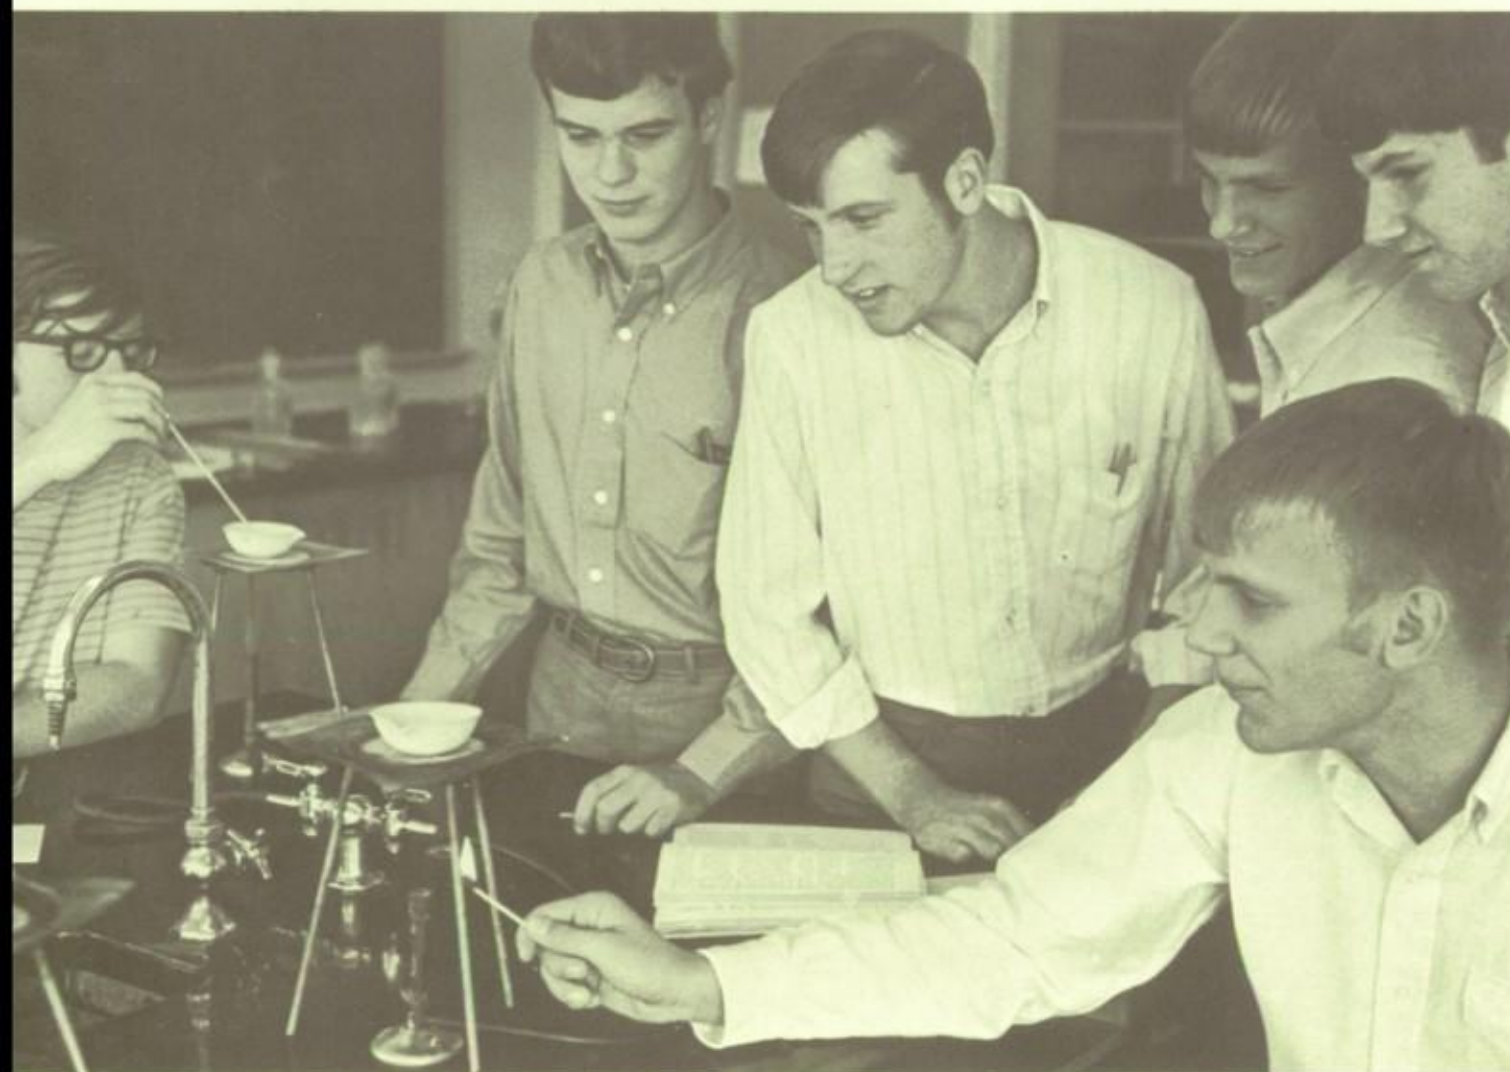

NAHS Equips Students for Technological Life

In our modern times, where headlines daily tell of new scientific and technological finds, it is important that every American citizen have a basic knowledge of mathematics and science. Nazareth Area Senior High School offers a varied curriculum in each of these fields, with classes for each interest level.

With courses in biology, chemistry, earth and space science, and physics offered for the science student, and geometry, algebra, trigonometry, and business math for the math-minded pupil, every student finds some course he can master.

In order to be graduated from Nazareth Area Senior High School, every student must accumulate 1 credit in science and 1 in mathematics.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Students Learn to Solve Future Social Problems

We find ourselves at the threshold of the '70's. Faced with the Vietnam Conflict, the Middle East Crisis, the Korean aftermath, we as Americans now must choose our way. Will we continue to defend every "under-dog" in the world? Or will we be overwhelmed by our own efforts to free the world for democracy? The time to decide is now.

By studying people throughout the world, learning about their government and their culture, we can establish better relationships with them. A basic knowledge of our American heritage can guide us in our future decisions. Understanding present problems — crime, delinquency, housing, racial conflicts, poverty — can lead to reasonable solutions. Social studies in our school train us to meet and overcome current and future social difficulties.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES AND LIBRARY Language Depts. Stress Literature & Grammar

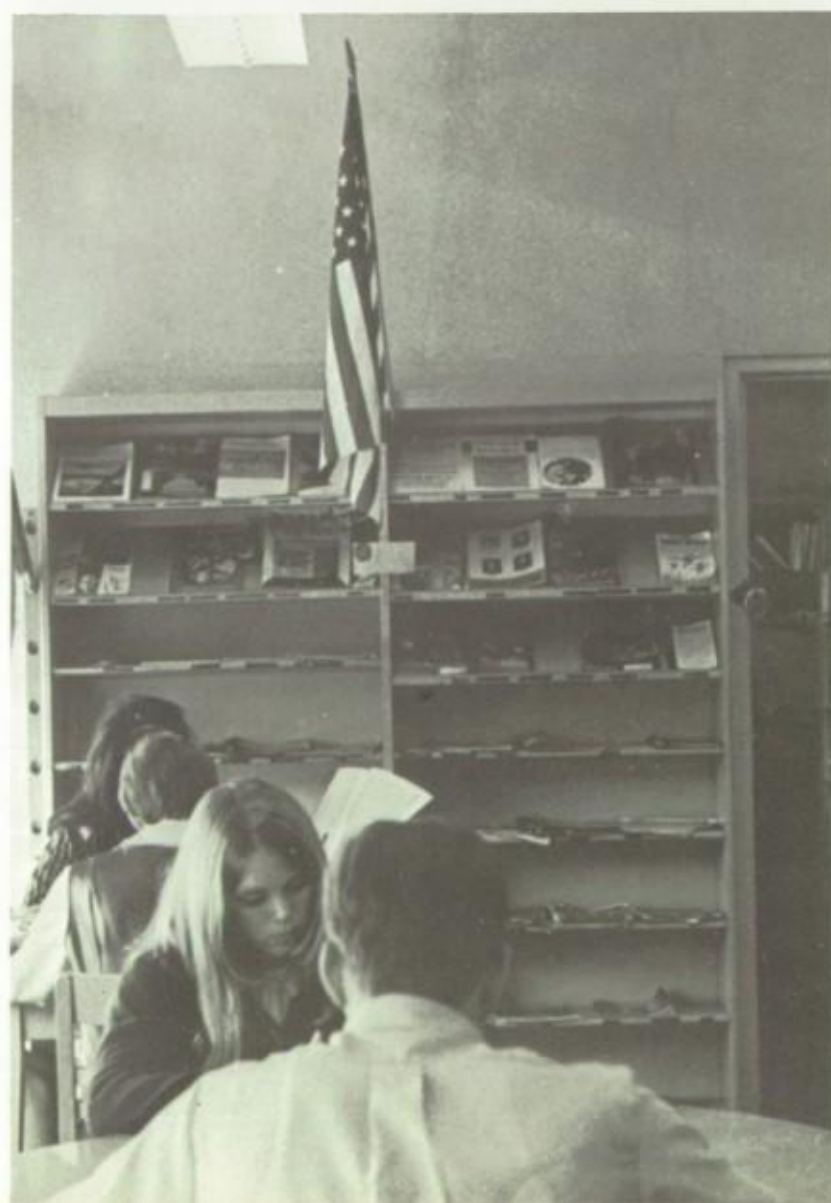

Due to new advances in communications, every person should be able to speak, read, and write his own language fluently, and, in addition, the language of another country. Nazareth Area Senior High School offers courses in both German and French.

French I, II, III, and IV, taught by Miss Joan Mesko, covers grammar, literature, and culture. In the fourth year course, which is relatively new, the entire class is conducted in the French language.

German I, II, III, and IV offers grammar, literature, and culture also. In the fourth year of German, also relatively new, compositions are assigned to be written entirely in German. The class also reads a novellette written in the German language. The classes are taught by Mrs. Ruth McGonigle and Mrs. Janice Lewis.

Nazareth Area Senior High School's library offers many materials for student use. The microfilm machine, installed in the beginning of last year, is the newest student aid. Due to the small number of school librarians available, Mrs. Anita Keck is presently substituting as our school librarian. She is capably assisted by Mrs. Ruth Anderson.

Leisure time may be spent in the library reading magazines and pamphlets. During study periods, students do research for term papers, find novels for book reports, or read the daily happenings in the newspaper.

LIBRARY AIDES CLUB: These students devote their free time to helping Mrs. Anita Keck and Mrs. Ruth Anderson in our school library. The colorful displays on the bulletin boards are the work of these students.

SEMINARS

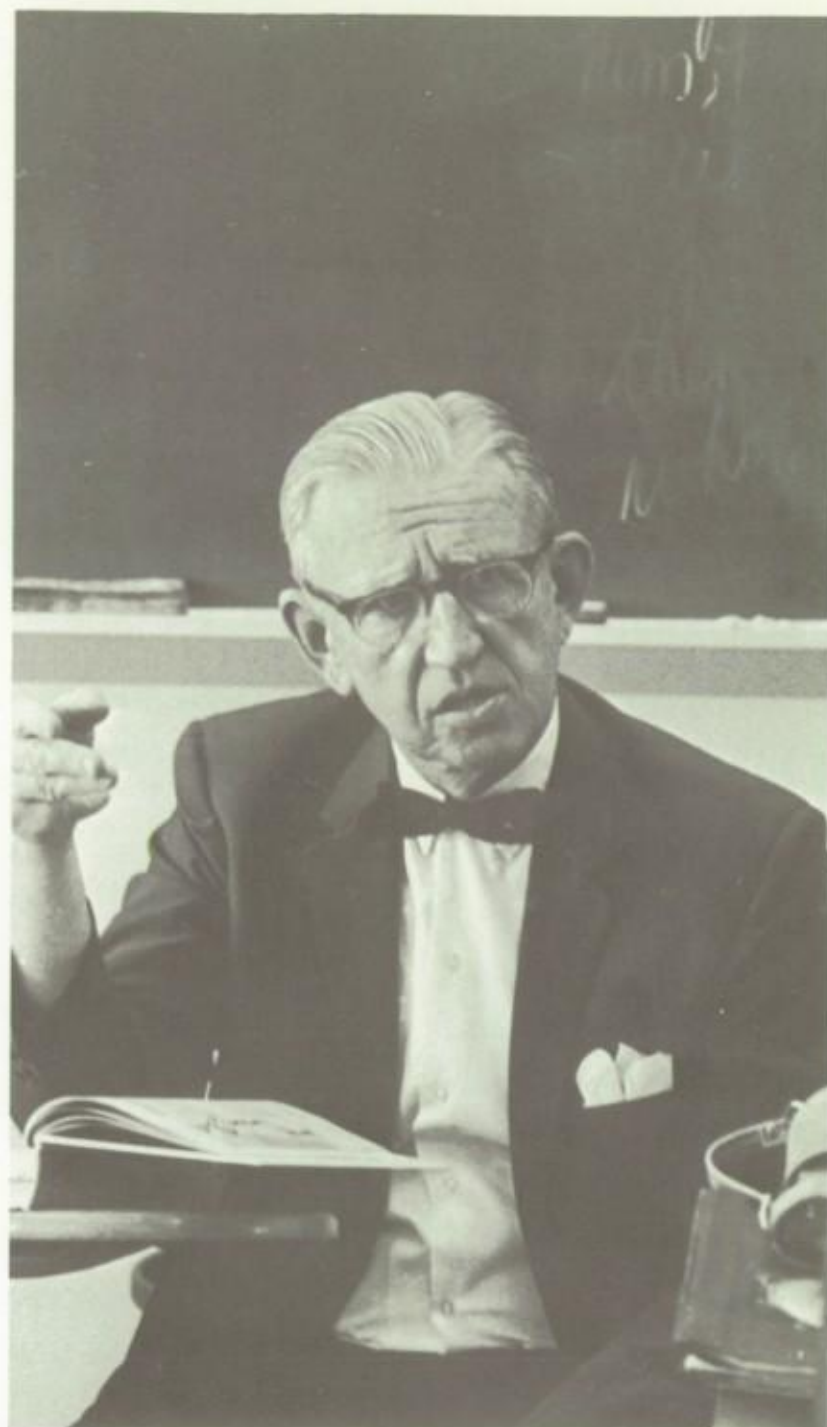

Seminars Provide Time for Intensified Study

ENGLISH SEMINAR

English Seminar, a course open to seniors and advised by J. F. Knecht, serves as a guideline for college English. As members of the group, students discuss not only works of past and present authors, but also talk freely about philosophies, universalities, and truisms found in literature.

The course gives students insight into problems in daily life and helps to create a well-balanced personality.

RIGHT: J. Frederic Knecht, adviser of the English Seminar, is introducing several new and interesting concepts for his select group's consideration. Recently elected Chairman of the English Department, Mr. Knecht collaborates his duties as both teacher and adviser to attain a uniform level of presentation. BELOW: Hank Schmoyer, Jody Mahorsky, Joann Lawrence, and Lisa Mikol are the members of this year's English Seminar. Having completed individual research on Shakespeare's Henry IV, they are comparing their findings with the others in the group.

In an attempt to make an in-depth study of propaganda, the Seminar-ians compare differences in news articles presented by newspapers from across the nation. Articles researched included the Ted Kennedy Incident, and the Viet Nameese War.

HISTORY SEMINAR

This year's History Seminar, advised by Miriam Zell, has undertaken a variety of projects. After dividing into committees, the students did research on riots in general and methods of propaganda and then reported their findings to the entire group.

The Seminar toured the Allentown Morning Call plant and received an informative talk on the makings of their newspaper by members of the staff.

Another topic was presented to the group by Robert Reichard, Senior High School guidance counselor, who spoke on the Youth Conference which was held at Lehigh University.

BELOW: Adviser of the History Seminar, Miriam Zell, attempts to enlighten her group by promoting stimulating debates and introducing projects dealing with current events as well as past American History.

Thomas Kolessar operates the projector while the other members of the History Seminar view a picture concerning life during the Twenty-first Century. Following the presentation, there was an informal discussion on the topic.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Ability Counts in Today's Business World

Today's secretary must be versatile. She should have a general knowledge of each field of work, be it typing, stenography, or accounting. Therefore, our business curriculum is dedicated to instructing students for future employment.

Typing requires accuracy as speed increases. Proof-reading for errors is an essential part of this course. Employers wouldn't sign letters with careless mistakes that could lose customers.

Competent stenographers take accurate notes under the tension of dictation. Shorthand gives students the chance to exhibit some of their other secretarial skills, such as typing and grammar. The stenographer must be able to transcribe notes on the typewriter. Correct grammar, punctuation, and spelling are an important asset for every secretary.

Record keeping has been introduced into the Business Education curriculum. It is an insight into the field of bookkeeping. Bookkeeping is designed to teach students the basic fundamentals for an accounting career.

Success in today's business world requires much more than good secretarial skills. Human relations and the ability to get along with all types of people are the keys to success.

Office practice classes are taught the everyday clerical routines performed in a business office. Here, Nancy Gold carefully erases a typographical error for a good, mailable copy. Students also learn the operation of various office machines.

Computing totals on the adding machine is only one of the different jobs for this office practice class. Brenda Lilly, Carol Person, and Barry Bealer tabulate amounts for their assignments.

"Keep your eyes on your copy," is a familiar phrase in all typing classes. Speed and accuracy are highly stressed. Students are also taught how to set up letters and tabulation problems.

"Assets equal liabilities plus proprietorship," is the fundamental bookkeeping equation taught by Mrs. Mildred Metz. Students learn how to record all types of business transactions and make accurate financial reports.

Ole Pedersen dribbles the ball down the field during a vigorous soccer game. His opponents attempt to overtake him and gain control of the ball. Soccer helps to develop many skills and coordination.

For the first time, two gym classes were introduced to the fundamentals of skiing. Balance and coordination which are essential to be a good skier, are improved by exercises on the balance beam.

Beverly Long begins a skiing hopscotch drill during one of the two skiing classes. This drill aids in the development of skills needed to perform proper turns while skiing.

Class Activity Develops Poise And Confidence

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Our Health and Physical Education Departments strive to develop in us an appreciation of the values of physical activity in becoming a well-rounded individual. The main objective of health classes is learning the function and care of our body and establishing good living habits. Today it is felt that a person cannot be well-rounded unless he has both a balanced education and a physical drive. Gym classes give students the opportunity to practice cooperation and good sportsmanship while keeping fit.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Knowing one's car is essential for being a safe driver. In Driver Education, six hours of actual driving experience are supplemented by thirty hours of classroom instruction. Classroom lecturing is emphasized by films and outside speakers.

Left: With the use of authentic specimens, health instructors explain the structure of the human skeleton to one of the health classes. Knowledge of the human skeleton is essential to the study of health. Above: Driver Education stresses the importance of safety in driving and the skills necessary in acquiring good driving habits. For this purpose, Mr. Guy Owens employs a text book, films, and slides.

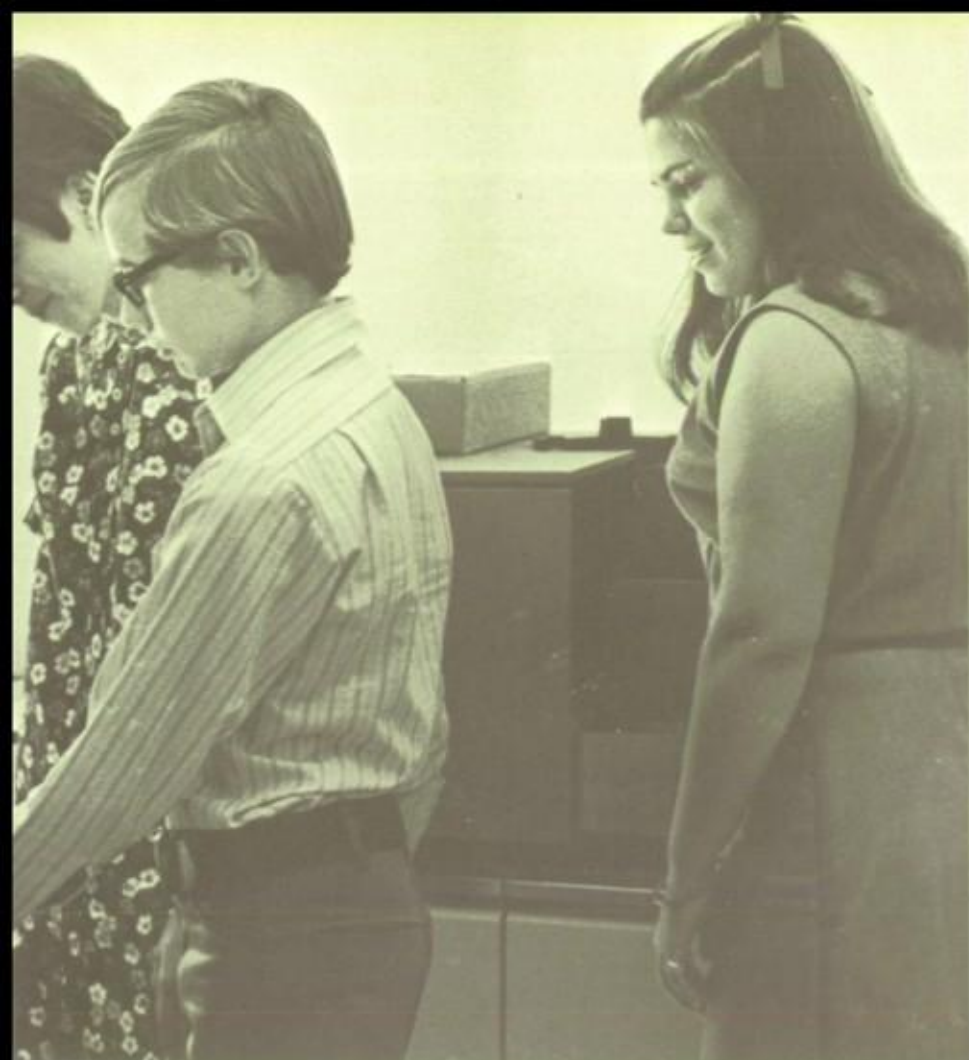

Right: Robert Steiner, Connie Gradwohl, and Sue Stannard read the instructions on the use of one of the new computers recently installed at the Vocational-Technical school.

By tightening a piece of metal in the chuck of a metal lathe, Jack Brodt fashions a replacement for a damaged part of a paper punch.

Using one of the metal lathe machines in the automechanic shop, Ricky Hahn shapes a piece of metal to be used for a future project.

VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL Modern Facilities Are Open to V-T Students

Vocational-Technical School of Eastern Northampton County provides students with an opportunity to develop skills that will be useful in their chosen vocation. Students attend classes in Forks Township for half the school day and spend the remaining half taking mandatory classes in gym, English, history, and health in our high school building.

There are a variety of shops available to the vocational training student: mechanics, electronics, masonry, business, management, carpentry, and printing.

Distributive Education students spend part of their day working at a job in their skilled areas instead of attending vocational classes.

This vital part of the school program trains students in the skills necessary to find employment.

Glenn Young spray paints a car that was provided by a local citizen for the purpose of training students in their chosen vocation of auto body work.

ART, INDUSTRIAL ART, AND HOME EC

Students Try To Reveal New Creative Abilities

Art classes give the student a chance to express his individuality through painting, drawing, sculpture, and many other mediums. Crafts includes such things as jewelry making, pottery, and other objects of design.

In the area of Industrial Arts, Nazareth offers both wood shop and metal shop. In the class, one learns the operation of machinery and wood finishing. This year, for the first time, there is a leather shop offered for the girls.

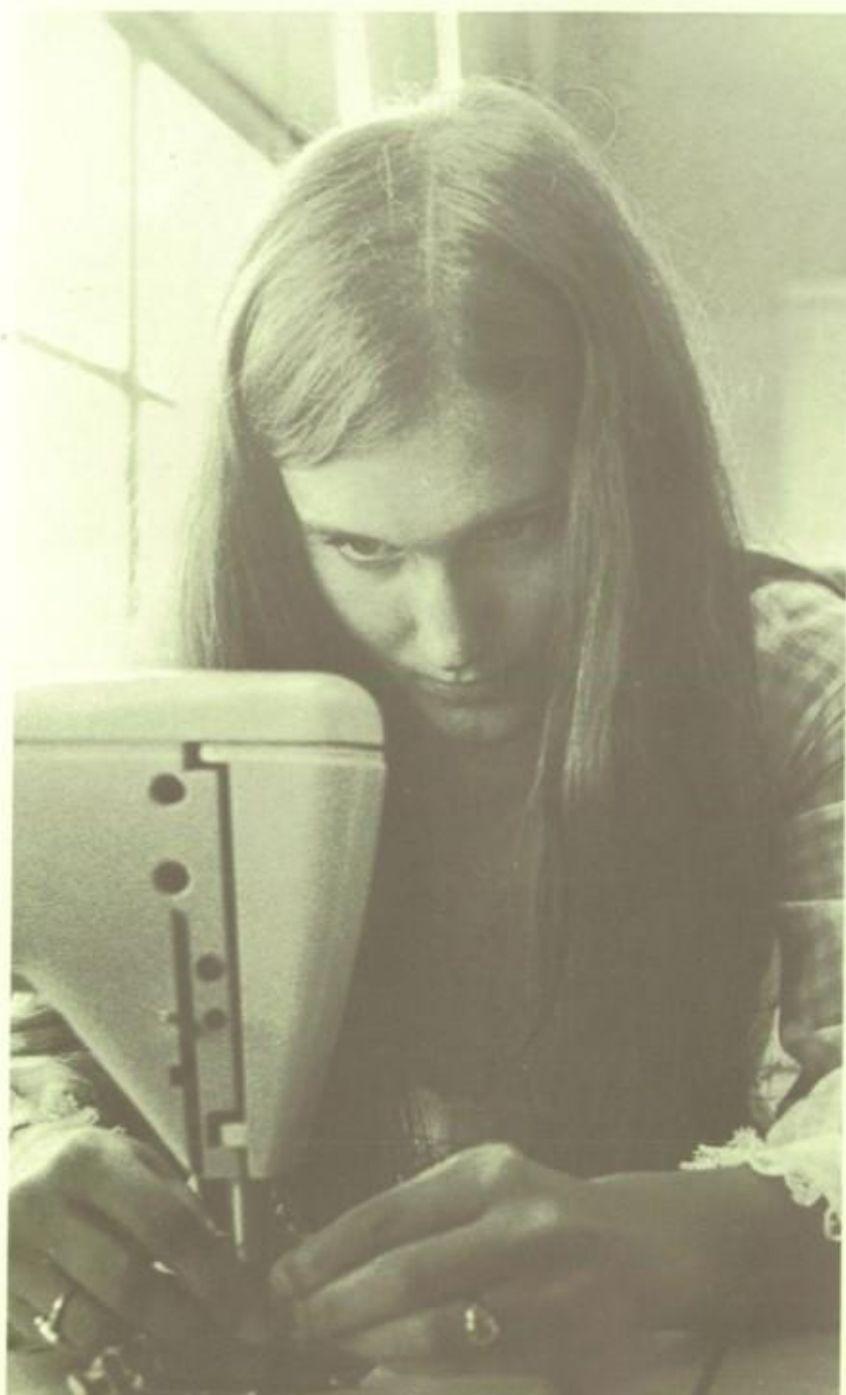

Home economics classes prepare girls for homemaking, which will prove beneficial after marriage. They learn the fundamentals of sewing, child care, nutrition, and family understanding.

In sewing classes the girls get a chance to add clothing to their wardrobe. They work from the simplicity of the blouses to the complicated tailoring of suits.

Metal shop students create their own designs using the mechanical devices found in the well-equipped shop. Students learn the complicated procedures in refinishing and antiquing furniture in the wood shop. They also make wooden bowls, tables, lamp bases, gun cabinets, book cases, inlaid chess boards and benches in a variety of woods and finishes.

Art I classes learn the technique of portrait drawing in pastels. Edith Seifert poses for the students as they try to capture her expression. Mr. Robert Lichner, instructor, offers some professional advice.

"Japanese Garden" is 1969 Jr. Prom Theme

On the evening of May 23, guests entering the lobby of the Senior High School gym stepped into the atmosphere of a Japanese Garden complete with rickshaws, Japanese maidens, a huge, colorful dragon, tiny parasols, and chopsticks. As they walked through bamboo-beaded doorways, their eyes focused on the beautiful lily pond surrounded by rocks and shrubbery and spanned by a footbridge. Dragon planks, volcanos, and two large gold Buddhas were the background for the band. Japanese lanterns hung from the ceiling and threw colorful tints of light on the floor. A Japanese Pagoda in its garden honored the queen and her court.

Right: Everyone waits anxiously for the announcing of the queen and her court. The five girls are chosen by the members of the Junior Class by write-in votes. Below: After escorting the Queen of the Prom and her court to the Japanese Pagoda, Tim Messinger presents them with their bouquets. Members of the court are Christine Davis, Roseanne DeFrank, Queen Jeanne Wolf, Peggi Bortz, and Linda Mackes.

Happiness and excitement are evident as couples pause beside the lily pond to socialize, toss in a coin, and make a wish; others simply enjoy dancing.

PROM

Post Prom Activities Held at Easton Hotel

Jeanne Wolf and her escort Charles Calandra are the only dancers on the floor following the crowning ceremony. Music for the gala evening was provided by the Vincent Pettinelli Orchestra.

Theme Committee members Kathy Stofanak and Alice Guida and Prom Committee Chairman Lisa Walters put finishing touches to the colorful-dragon that greeted guests as they entered the lobby.

Compared to the lively dancing and good spirits of the Post Prom Party, the mood of the Prom itself was quite sedate. The "Combinations" provided the music for the Post Prom dancing.

Gaily decorated tables in the lobby provide happy couples with a place to relax and enjoy refreshments while discussing the events of the memorable evening. The evening's festivities were completed at a Post Prom party at Hotel Easton.

Right: Much time and effort was spent at rehearsals to set the mood in certain scenes. Here Conway shows his shock and dismay over the death of the High Lama. At Far Right: Miss Brinklow discusses the need for a church in Shangri-La to Mallinson and Conway. She captured the audience in her constant disapproval of life in the valley.

Helen, the gracious hostess, is informed by Ai-Ling, the servant girl, that Talu, the pilot, has been buried. Conway, not understanding the native language of Ai-Ling, asks Helen what has happened.

Joe Laurito, the Tibetan servant, tries to prevent Mallinson and Lo-Tsen from leaving Shangri-La. Lo-Tsen would suddenly grow old and die if she left the valley.

Myra, Rutherford, Wyland, and Elizabeth are seated in a dining room. These four characters relate the facts of the story in the Prologue and in the Epilogue.

Michele Noll and Elizabeth Barr discuss their job of student directing with John R. Scannell, faculty director. These girls, with the help of their adviser, produced a most successful senior class play.

CLASS PLAY

"Lost Horizon" Plays To Near Capacity Audience

Interpreting and realistically portraying the characters in the haunting play "Lost Horizon" at first posed the cast's chief problem. As practices became longer and more frequent, the players warmed to their parts; they made the characters live.

Practices were many times tedious and frustrating, not only to the cast but also the faculty director John Scannell. Gradually, as they learned their lines, got to know one another better, and as costumes, set, programs, and other plans for the production neared completion, the cast members fabricated a tale of clam beds and cigar butts and threw numerous parties — birthday parties, we've-learned-our-line parties, end-of-play parties.

The cast weren't the only ones who slaved long hours to make the play successful. Costume committee sewed colorful Tibetan shifts for hours after school and Saturdays; set committee was forced not only to labor manually, but also to endure the mental torture of Mr. Lichner's tirades.

Despite all the upsets, the play was successful, and was even shown on Cable TV.

Barnard shows his anger when he finds Mallinson going through his wallet. Through this search, Mallinson reveals to everyone that Barnard is a fugitive hiding from the police.

Comet Staff Publishes 50th Anniversary Issue

Beginning in September, the Comet Staff got off to an early start on the publication of the 50th Anniversary volume. The 15-member staff worked first on soliciting the advertisements for the yearbook. The next big decision was choosing a suitable theme, a general layout, and the cover design that would please our class of 1970. With the help and advice of advisers Mrs. Kolesar and Mr. Schmoyer, the staff went to work.

After getting started on the main areas, the staff coupled up and worked on the different sections, including forming the layouts, picking pictures, writing captions, copy, and headers, and making sure all the viewpoints of each section were displayed. There were times of loafing, lectures, and very hard work, but when the deadline times came, effort was put forth, and work was always completed and ready for the publisher.

Comet staff members were Carlton Huff, Karen Ifkovits, Tom Kolessar, JoAnn Lawrence, Marcie Lichtenwalner, Jody Mahorsky, Joanne Mann, Debbie Olenwine, Janet Overholt, Stephanie Paukovits, Mary Rohn, Kathy Stofanak, Nanette Stoudt, Lisa Walters, and Mary Ann Wunderly, Frances D'Achille.

Staff members use their creativity and imagination to try to display to the reader an overall view of their assigned sections.

Left: Lisa Walters and Kathy Stofanak work together to complete the prom section before the scheduled deadline. Mr. Schmoyer assigns sections according to the student's own interest. Below: The Comet staff works hard to obtain a high rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Last year's Comet received a first-place rating.

Officers and Executive Committee of the Nazareth Area High School Bi-Partisan Political Club meet to coordinate the activities of the Club. The group held a hoagie sale to sponsor a trip and to send delegates to a model House of Representatives at Kutztown State College.

French Club Officers, President Ellen Day, Secretary Debbie Olenwine, Vice President Joann Lawrence, Treasurer Carol Dech, and Adviser Joan Mesko cut the cake to end a very delightful Christmas Party.

One of six guest exchange students, this girl from Thailand enjoys a conversation with members of the French Club. Three of the guests presented slides and talks on their home countries.

POLITICAL CLUB AND FRENCH CLUB

Clubs Serve to Broaden Student Interests

FRENCH CLUB

This Club was created to broaden the cultural background of the students. Such events as trips to New York, a proposed trip to Canada, and French Christmas Party are sponsored by the Club which was organized and advised by Joan Mesko. These trips to New York were the high points of the year for the Club members because such interesting sights as museums, Broadway plays, French restaurants, and Brentano's Book Store were visited.

POLITICAL CLUB

Political Club was established to acquaint students with the workings of local and federal governments and the functions of political parties. Meetings are supplemented by outside speakers. The Club sponsored a hoagie sale during the month of October to raise money for a proposed trip to Washington, D. C.

Officers of the Political Club are President Thomas Kolessar, Secretary Debbie Schmoyer, Vice President Maribeth West, and Treasurer Carlton Huff.

LEFT: Students admire the decorations of the buffet table during the French Club Christmas Party. This beautiful bouquet and the delicious-looking cakes served as the centerpieces for the head tables.

These girls are working on their balance beam routines which is a major event in girls' gymnastic competition. Although the school's balance beam is approximately two feet too short, it does give the students some experience.

Future Homemakers of America offers many services to the school and community and sponsors such projects as hoagie sales and the Mother and Daughter Banquet. Officers of the Club are Dolores Reese, Janet Hinkel, Debbie McAllister, Cheryl Hinkel, and Jane Breinig. Mrs. Elizabeth Kunkel is adviser to this group.

CLUBS

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS CLUB

Due to increasing interest in gymnastics, Mrs. Sandra Shindel formed the Girls' Gymnastics Club. Members begin their sessions with limbering exercises such as splits, cartwheels, and toe touches. These are followed by practice of gymnastic skills of varying difficulties. Because of these sessions, the girls have progressed from cartwheels to walk-overs. With the expansion of the school and the addition of new gymnastic equipment, the sport of gymnastics promises to increase in popularity in Nazareth Area Senior High School. This year the girls' were led in their activities by officers Christine Traupman, Jocelyn Sours, Patricia Walker, and Kathleen Magditch.

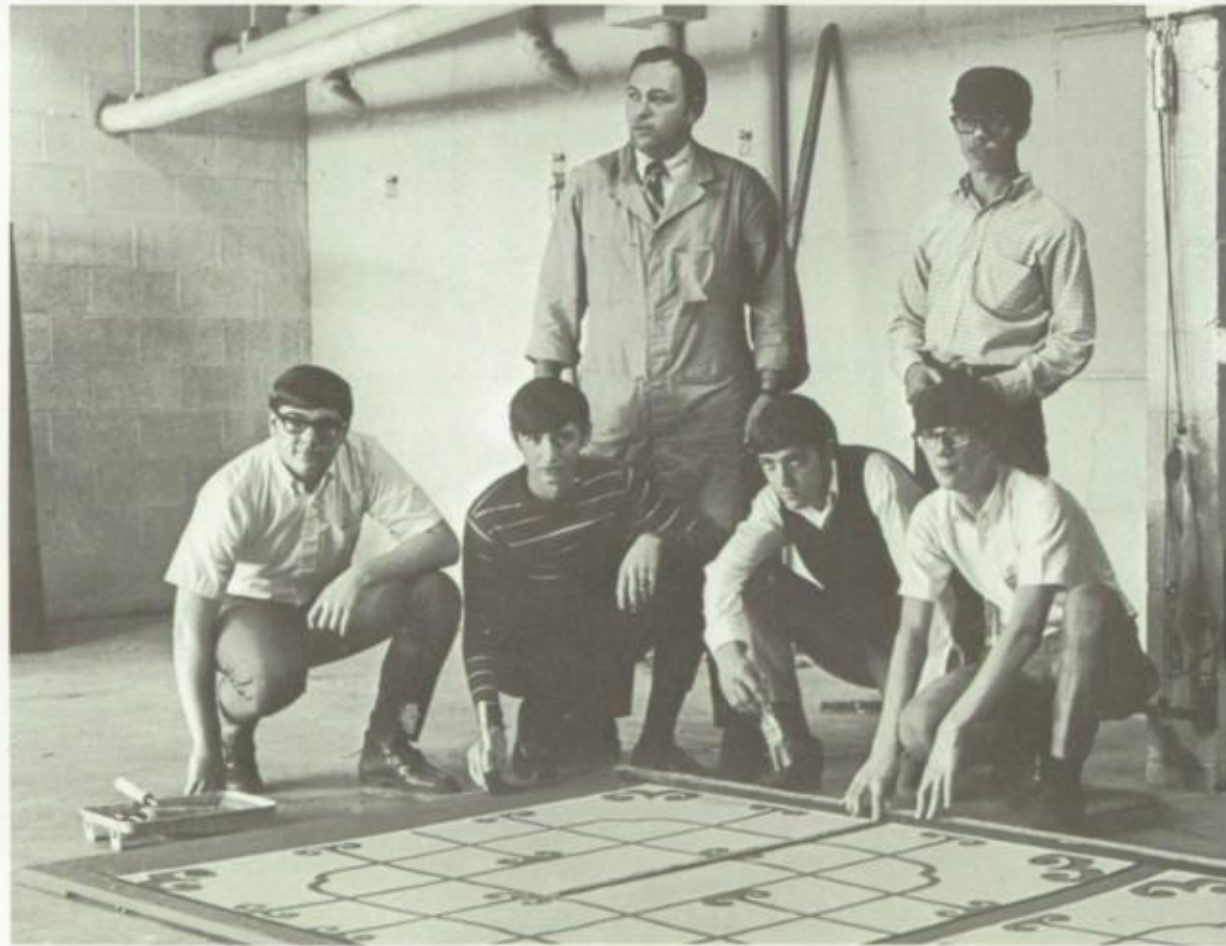

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

In order to provide service for the school and community, the Future Homemakers was organized. To raise funds for their various projects such as the Mother and Daughter Banquet and their annual trip to the Pennsylvania Farm Show at Harrisburg, the Club sponsored a hoagie sale.

Trampoline routines are a very important part of gymnastics. Work on the tramp begins with basic moves as pirouettes, knee drops, and seat drops, and after much practice one graduates to the difficult skills of turntable or swivel hips.

Art Club officers President Doug Hoch, Vice President JoAnn Lawrence, and Secretary-Treasurer Lisa Walters along with Adviser Robert Lichner organize the activities of the club. The group made their own Christmas cards.

Stagecraft Club gives students who have artistic talent the chance to aid in the construction of stage settings for the Senior Class Play, choral concerts, and other productions during the year.

Stephany Miller structures the framework for a papier maché elephant during a session of the Art Club. Papier maché objects are made from a basis form of newspaper or wire which is covered with paper soaked in a mixture of water and wheat paste.

CLUBS

New Art Club Formed at Nazareth Area High

ART CLUB

Art Club was created to give students with a special interest in art the opportunity to work with many more types of creative projects than can be covered in class. During their meetings the members are allowed to work with any project they wish. The informal atmosphere readily lends itself to creativity.

STAGECRAFT CLUB

Members of the Stagecraft Club provide artistic background for many school performances, such as the Senior Class play and various musical concerts. This club gives interested students the opportunity to work with wood and other materials in expressing their artistic ability.

Displaying many varied forms of art designed by the members of Art Club, Robert Lichner provides the art room with a colorful and creative atmosphere. This display includes oil paintings, perspective paintings, and papier-maché.

HONOR SOCIETY — STUDENT COUNCIL

Promoting High Ideals and Scholastic Action

Citizenship, character, service, scholarship, and leadership — these are the five characteristics of the Honor Society member. To attain membership in the Delphian Chapter of the National Honor Society, a student must have an average of 4.0 at the end of his Sophomore year and an 3.8 at the end of his Junior year. Members of the Honor Society are eligible for National Honor Society scholarships which are awarded to students ranking high on the qualifying tests.

This year's Student Council proved quite successful. Various committees consisting of the 16 seniors, 12 juniors, and 8 sophomores sponsored the first annual Homecoming. It was a highly successful event, with pep rallies, talent shows, and a semi-formal dance. A victory over Pen Argyl's football team climaxed our first annual Homecoming Day.

Initiated by the Council, a Student-Faculty Relations Committee was formed. This committee samples the opinions of both the students and teachers and tries to solve the problems confronted within the school system.

NEWSPAPER

Newspaper Challenges Aspiring Writers

Journalism class was not a class in which things were taught from a book, but it was one in which the learning came from actual experiences in putting an entire newspaper together. The class met five periods a week and in that time they edited and prepared for the typists the news and feature articles which were reported to them by staff members outside the class.

This year the group did almost all of the work. They typed the rough and final drafts, pasted up the paper, which is a process of laying out the articles on a sample page as they will appear in the finished product, and proofreading.

Burning the plates, which had to be done by a printing shop, was the only step in the process in which the class did not take part. Once these plates arrived, the paper was printed on the off-set duplicating machine here at school. Previously a commercial printer did all the mechanical operations.

Heckman, Brodt, And Buss Receive Honors

For thousands of years, musical instruments have been conveying people's feelings. Some of this year's students expressed modern ideas, while participating in the 1969—1970 band.

In addition to presenting colorful halftime routines at football games, the marching band also performed in community parades. Under the direction of Augustine C. Weinhofer, the band practiced unlimited hours to present both a Spring Concert and a Summer Concert at the Nazareth Borough park.

One of the most important services offered by this year's band was the boosting of our school spirit at pep rallies. The lively music stimulated the students. Our special Pep Band performed during the intermissions of home basketball games.

Another special band event was the placing of Richard Heckman, Joseph Buss, and Ralph Brodt in both District and Regional Bands. This year's District Band concert was held at Whitehall High School under the direction of Lieutenant-Commander Thomas Adcock of the Naval School of Music in Virginia. The Regional Band concert took place in Troy, PA with James Dunlap, head of Penn State University's Blue Band serving as guest director.

SPECIAL STAFF

Keeping Home-Away- From-Home Welcome

Although the school day closes at 3:20 for the students, it is only the start of a new day for the custodial staff. Our school maintains its attractive appearance only because of the diligent efforts of these conscientious men and women. Their efforts result in clear floors, repaired plumbing, sanitized rooms and lavatories, and well-kept grounds. Aside from the daily jobs of sweeping halls, dusting rooms, and emptying waste baskets, the janitors also found time to fix leaking water fountains and other odd jobs.

Smooth functioning of our lunch program is due to the efforts of the cafeteria staff. Mrs. Yolanda Burley, cafeteria manager, and the staff have the job of planning and preparing a variety of nutritious meals every day. A change in the cafeteria system this year was made when students with huge appetites petitioned for the privilege of buying double lunch tickets.

"To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven . . ."

There was a time — nearly three years ago it was — when we were the despised sophomores. As sophomores we found time to be bold and brash and rowdy; we took time to aggravate our upperclassmen, simply because we were sophomores, and it was the season to be obnoxious. For what purpose is a sophomore, if not to be scorned by those who have, over the years, ceased to be sophomores.

Sassy juniors, we flashed our new class rings confidently. We wrestled with demanding courses, yet emerged unscathed, if not wiser and stronger. By the second semester of our junior year many of us had begun flipping through college handbooks, taking College Boards, or seriously considering future job opportunities.

And then it was the first day of the last year of school. We were so tense — our hands felt clammy and our voices sounded strange and wispy.

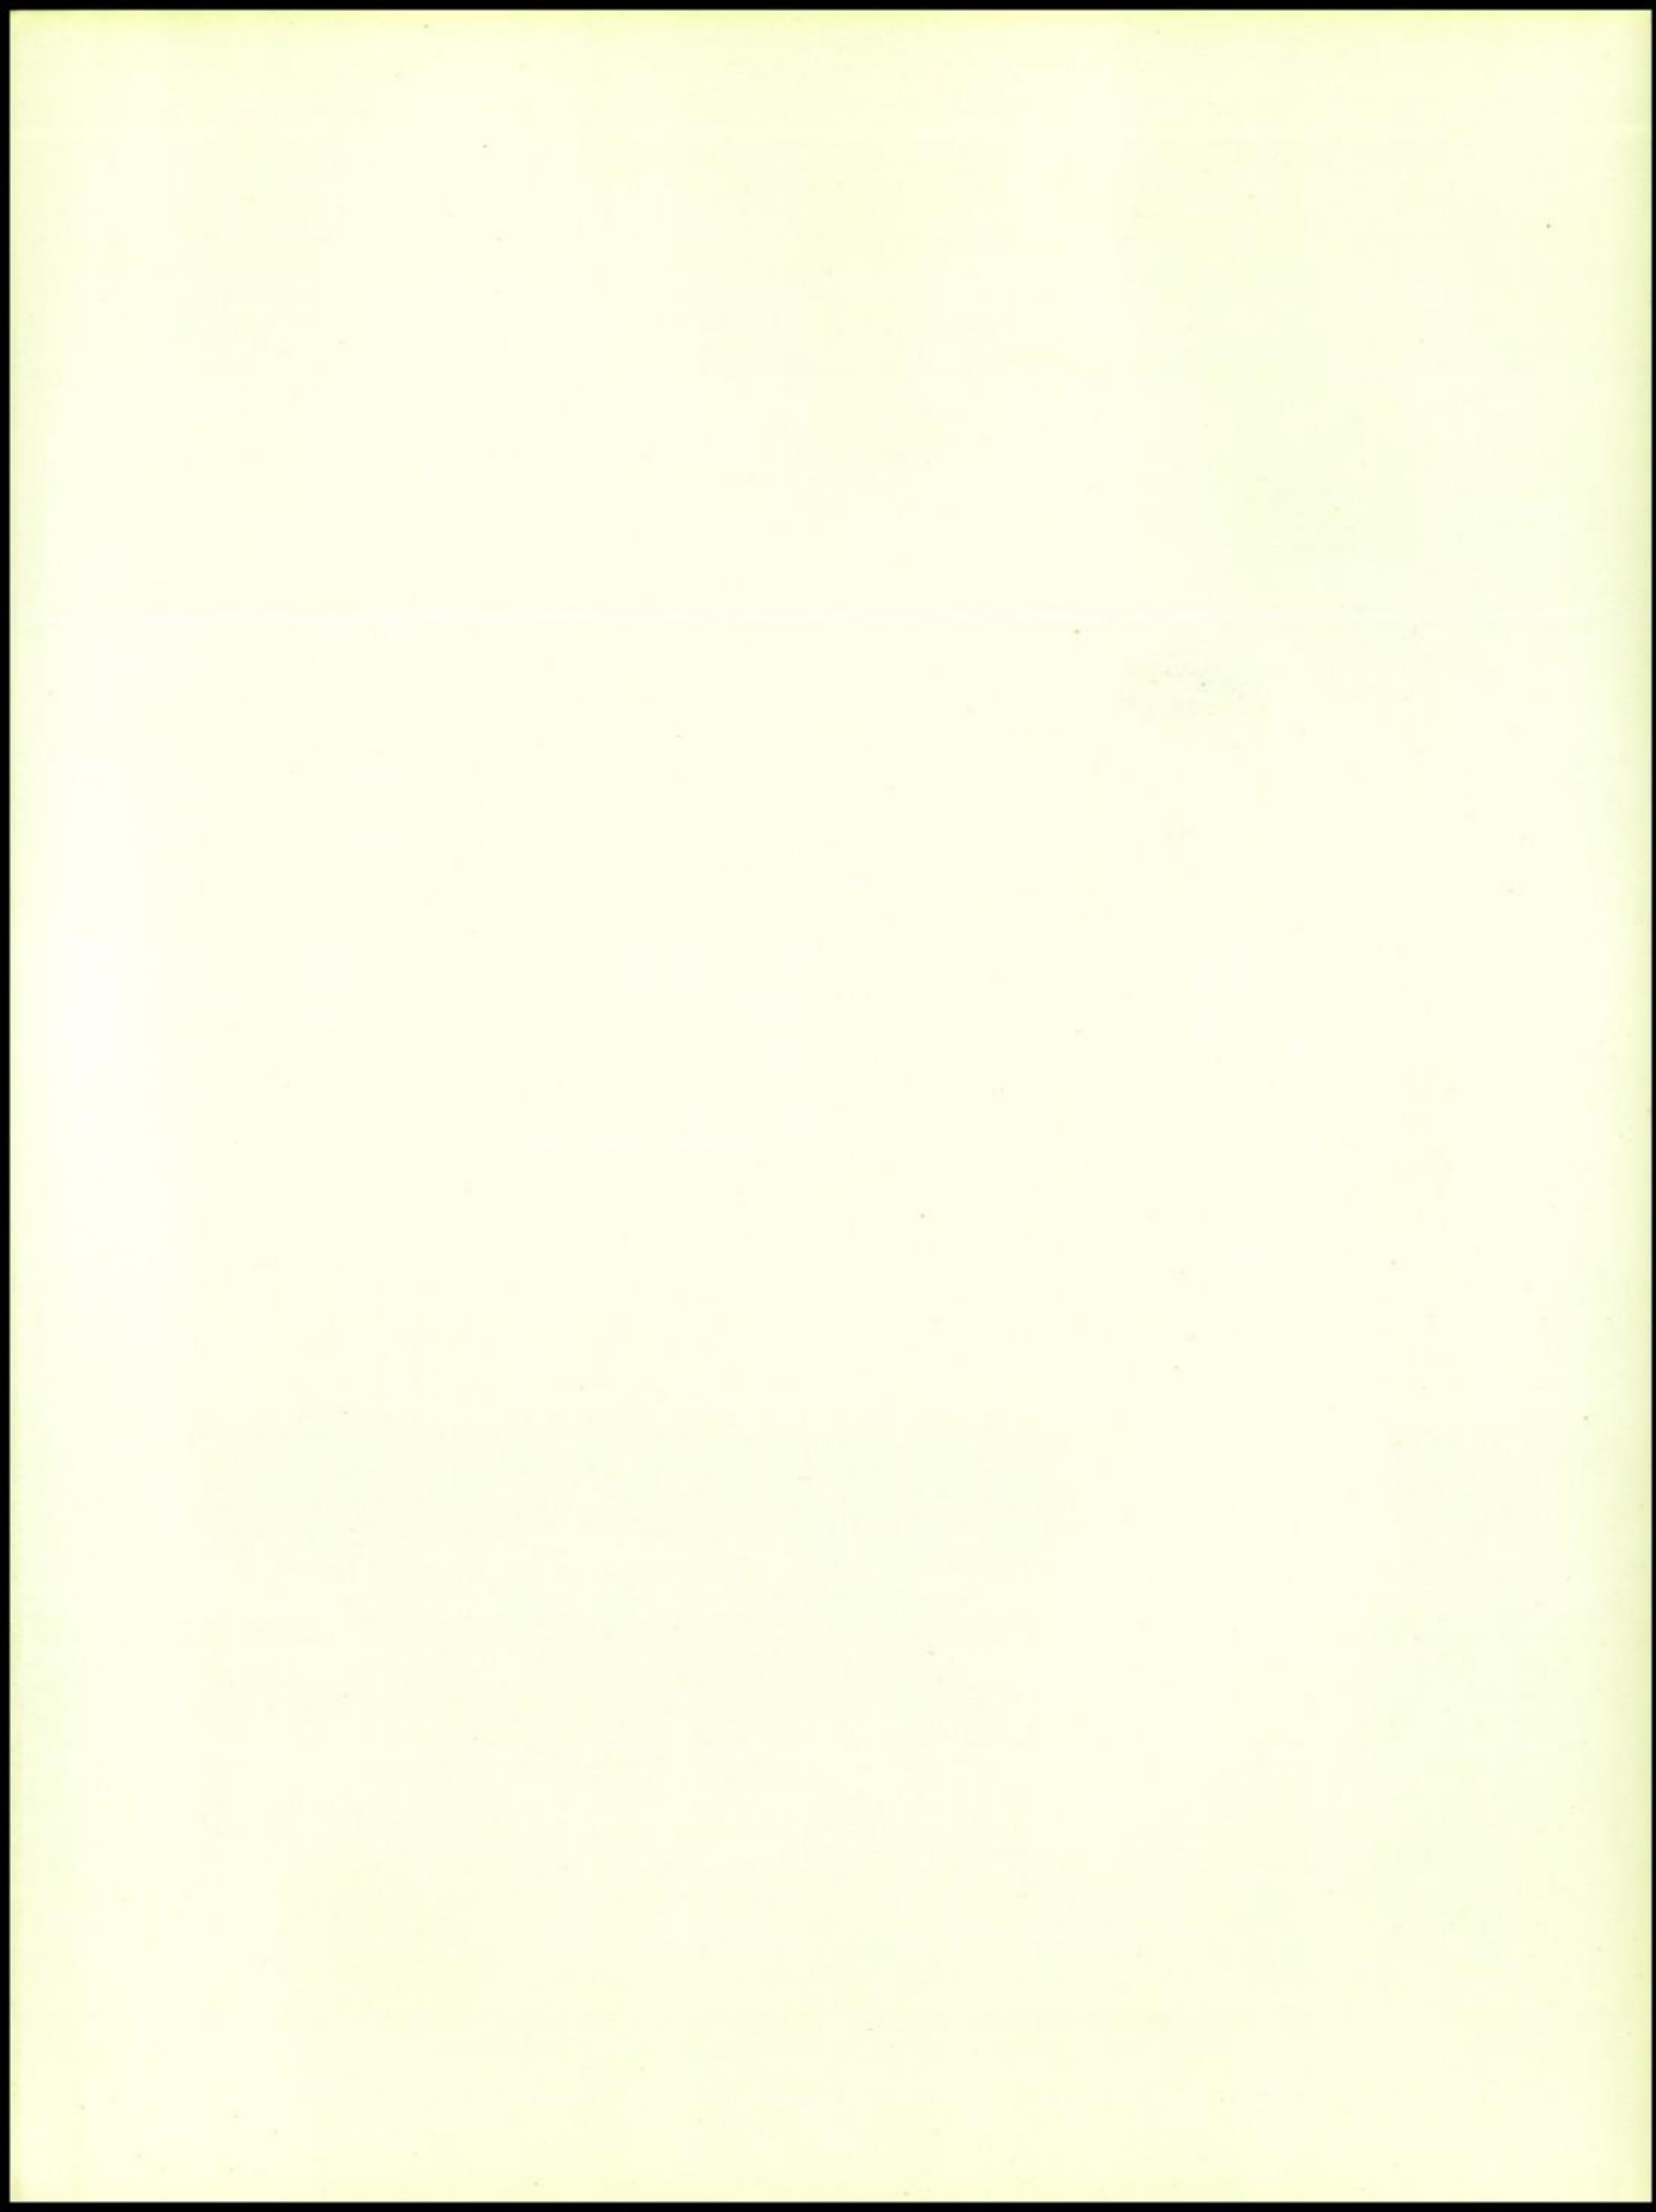

Our senior year found us rebellious. We staged a moratorium on the dress code, we protested the new exam system. We despised teachers, realizing too late that they were only people, and that perhaps they really did mean to help us. Somehow our world expanded and we knew that others existed and faced the same daily frustrations in Life that we did. But now it's too late, much too late. It's the last year; we're going to graduate; we're going to college; we're leaving; it's time for us to go.

So the days have romped by, one upon the heels of that before it. There were times to laugh, to cry, to complain, and to enjoy; times to study and slave under the hot glare of desk lamps. Sometimes at games we would scream and plead with our players. If they won the game for us, we loved them fiercely, and displayed our pride like a bright banner; if they lost, we fell grimly silent, determined that we'd never lose again. There were times to question and to protest; to accept, to submit. And to every sadness or joy or anger of doubt, to every success or failure, to every act or thought, right or wrong, that we have ever committed, there has been a time and a purpose.

"One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh, but the earth abideth forever. The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to his place where he arose."

We cannot stand still here. We cannot always face behind us. We dare not lament what has passed, what we have lost. Nor dare we cherish too greatly what newly we have discovered. Rooted in the knowledge these years have given us, we must live the present to the utmost, yet keep an eye open to the future. For what our generation does will affect future generations far more profoundly than the activities of previous generations have affected us.

JoAnn Lawrence
